American Destroyers Rush Relief Work at Port Of Yokohama

Kobe, Sept. 6 (delayed).—H. W. Morse, of the International Banking corporation, was murdered by bandits in Tokyo while carrying a large sum of money in a box from the banking corporation's building, according to refugees reaching here today.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS For International News Service

SHANGHAI, Sept. 8.—Thirty thousand bodies of victims of the terrible disaster in Japan were recovered in Tokyo alone, up to last Tuesday, it was officially announced here today by the Japanese consulate.

The consulate was in receipt today of an official message from the department of home affairs at Tokyo.

"Since Saturday, when the earthquake was first felt here," the Japanese home minister said, "30,000 bodies in the capital had been recovered up until September 4."

Casualties Are Numerous
"More than 100,000 persons have been injured," the official announcement said.

Official confirmation of the death of American Consul Max D. Kirjassoff and Mrs. Kirjassoff was contained in the home department's message. The Dutch consul and his wife also were killed. These four foreigners met death in the collapse of the Grand hotel at Yokohama.

"The British consul at Yokohama," the official message explained, "escaped death, but suffered a broken arm. Other attaches of foreign powers are missing."

KIWANIANS LEARN OF CHEST PLANS

Burton McGinnis Tells Club What's Being Done; Music Enjoyed

Discussion of plans for the organization of a Community Chest for Glendale formed the principal topic at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse yesterday, when Burton McGinnis, the Kiwanis representative of the club on the Community Chest committee, submitted his report.

Mr. McGinnis stated that the committee is now engaged in making a comprehensive survey of the entire local field in order to determine what will be required to meet the needs of the various charitable organizations operating here. He stressed the point that the Community Chest is not, in any way, to be confused with the Community Service, which is an organization working out a definite program of its own.

"It had been suggested," Mr. McGinnis said, "that a professional organizer be secured to work out the plans for the Community Chest and to direct the drive that is to be held to raise the funds that will be called for when all the local organizations have drawn up their budgets, but after the matter had been canvassed from every angle, it was decided to carry out the campaign with the help of local workers exclusively."

Following the report of Mr. McGinnis the Kiwanis club voted to support the plans of the Community Chest committee in every possible way.

The following members have been selected from the various (Continued on page 8)

Americans Return to Tokio Where They Will Rescue Valuables in Strong Boxes

By DUKE N. PARRY For International News Service

Kobe, Sept. 6.—(Delayed.)—Pestilence is feared in Tokyo and Yokohama today because of the inadequate water supply and scarcity of food. The lives of hundreds of foreigners are menaced by these conditions. Refugees arriving here described the situation in the two cities as most unsanitary.

Heads of American and British firms in the capital and port city, under the leadership of W. L. Farnham of the National City Company, organized today at the Oriental hotel plans for going to these stricken cities aboard a United States destroyer to open safes and other strong boxes to collect valuables and important archives wherever they were not destroyed. The attitude of the various foreign consulates here regarding this step is unknown, but their permission must first be secured before the salvage expedition departs.

The first known dead killed in Tokyo is W. T. Blume, of the Western Nippon Electric Company, believed to be an American.

The International Banking Corporation announced today that H. W. Morse, of Burlington, Vermont, and not C. E. Morse, as at first reported, was killed. M. C. H. Holbrook, an accountant in the bank, also was killed. His home is in Kentucky. E. G. Babbitt, American commercial attaché at Tokyo, who was at first reported dead, is alive, but Doris Babbitt, his daughter, is the only member of the family missing.

Others missing and believed dead or injured are: W. B. Mason, author of Murray's Guide Book; Hugh Horne, British consulate; L. Cotte, veteran of Verdun and manager of the Oriental Palace Hotel; Florence Penner and Enid Clark.

At this time the Standard Oil Company's warehouse in Yokohama is still burning, explosions sending flaming oil in all directions. It is feared the fire will burn continually for the remainder of the week.

RED CROSS PLEA FOR FUNDS QUICK

Glendale Must Hurry to Get Japanese Relief Quota By Monday Night

With Monday, September 10, set as the last day of the campaign to raise Glendale's quota of $3,432 for the Japanese relief fund, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the Glendale Chapter of the Red Cross, this morning stated that over $1000 has already been received and issued a plea for everyone in this prosperous city to donate to the limit in order to insure Glendale's prompt raising the amount asked in the time allotted. A telegram has been received from the Pacific Division of the American Red Cross, she said, urging that all contributions be in by Monday, September 10.

Contributions that have been received include today $50 from L. H. Thompson, 551 West Harvard, and $25 from the Kiwanis club.

Jesse E. Smith, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, is adding his voice to the appeal made by the Red Cross officers, and has contributed his own check for $50, through the Chamber of Commerce, which has been authorized to receive donations for the fund, to be turned over to the Red Cross. Mr. Smith declares that it would be a matter for deep regret if a city, that has been blessed as Glendale has, should fail to rise to the occasion when suffering humanity is stretching out its hands and asking for succor, as Japan is today.

Take Money to Banks
Collectors of the Red Cross who have been stationed in every bank in the city are conducting an active campaign to raise the city's quota before Monday night, and their hopes are high that Glendale will go over the top with plenty to spare before the time limit is reached.

Contributions have been received from the following persons, in addition to those whose names were given yesterday: $25—W. R. Vanderwood. $15—George M. Hull. $10—Dr. M. B. Ketchum, Mrs. (Continued on page 5)

SCOTS INITIATE MONSTER CLASS

Parade of Lodge Members On Brand Boulevard Has Many Features

The parade of Scots that formed one of the high lights of the initiation of the monster class last night went off with a bang as the members of the order paraded down Brand boulevard and back to the lodge room at 331 North Brand to the stirring strains of music and jazz, with the members of the Glendale Pyramids and the officers and members of visiting Pyramids in line to help out the celebration. The crowds that thronged the sidewalks applauded the marchers, and the lighting effects furnished by the De Molay boys were a striking feature of the parade, while the stunts that were pulled as the marchers passed along the street roused roars of laughter from participants and spectators.

The new members who were admitted to Glendale Pyramid No. 39 at last night's ceremony were more than one hundred, and the membership of the Pyramid now totals close to 400, a growth that the officials declare is remarkable in the short time the organization has been in existence.

Among the visiting notables of the order were Scot Tulley, Toparch of the Los Angeles Pyramid; Jack Wiese, Pyramid No. 1, supreme trustee; E. L. Williams, supreme marshal, past Toparch, and founder of the San Diego Pyramid; Walter Argobright, Toparch of Ventura Pyramid; and Jack Horton, Toparch of Santa Ana Pyramid.

During the meeting at the lodge a musical program was rendered, with the following artists taking part: Hawaiian quartette, in Hawaiian and Hawaiian melodies; Dorothy and Kathleen Wood, Glendale dancers; Molly Midram, impersonator; Eunice Prossor, violinist, and Helen Newcombe, accompanist. Scot Murdy was program chairman and Keaumoku Louis was director of the program.

The entertainment and the luncheon that formed part of the evening's ceremonies were features that made a pronounced hit with the members and their guests.

MAXIMUM OF DARKNESS AT 12:55

Weird Phenomena Coming In Heavenly Spectacle On September 10

By H. THOMPSON RICH, B. S. Dartmouth College Class of '15 Member of The Evening News Staff

Glendale will begin to fall under the moon's shadow at 11:29 o'clock Monday morning, September 10, and will experience the maximum of eclipse at 12:55, when the magnitude will be .99 percent, the shadow lifting at 2:17 o'clock in the afternoon.

Curiously enough, the one percent short of total eclipse, as visible from this city, will allow a thin silver crescent of the sun to remain uncovered, thus depriving spectators of that magnificent sight visible from Catalina island, Santa Barbara, Del Mar and other points of totality—the flaming corona, which scientists predict will extend out beyond Old Sol five times his diameter in every direction, offering truly a weird and unforgettable spectacle to the fortunate few who will observe this supreme phenomenon of the heavens.

Rushing Shadow

Two other remarkable sights will accompany this coincidence of two heavenly bodies for a few brief moments with the orbit of the earth. One is the sweeping, crescent-shaped shadow which will travel at the rate of fifty miles per hour the length of the eclipse path, starting at dawn from the northwest slopes of the Pacific, across Southern California, Mexico, Guatemala and the Caribbean sea, terminating with sunset at the island of Jamaica.

This shadow will be plainly visible to observers occupying elevated positions commanding views of a valley or ocean surface to the northwest, becoming noticeable in each locality a few moments before the period of totality.

Moon's Disk Edging

The other remarkable sight in conjunction with Monday's eclipse will be the beads of pink at the moon's edge as her disc settles squarely over the sun for its three and one-half-minute stay.

As a result of the forthcoming obscuration of the sun's face, hotels at all convenient points of (Continued on page 8)

City Will Be Advertised In Springfield, Mass., By Two Delegates

By ART SHERBORNE Of The Evening News Staff

Glendale, California, may not be very well known to Springfield, Mass., at this time—but it will be before the close of September—just as soon as Capt. D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard and W. C. Waring of 719 South Maryland avenue get on the job September 24 at the annual convention of the National Exchange Club.

The journey over land and sea starts tomorrow morning. The delay was caused by Mr. Jackson's insistence upon paying all bills before departure. Mr. Waring reports that this action on his part would delay the trip until after the next rain. The two delegates will be accompanied by a wife apiece and Miss Grace Jackson.

They're "Rip" and "Stump" The Glendale Exchange club will be obliged to worry along for the next six weeks without the wonderful talking ability of President Jackson and the remarkable listening ability of Chief Doorkeeper Waring. Within the club, which is composed of local business men, one is known as "Rip" and the other as "Stump." Between the two of them they manage to make things (Continued on page 8)

CLAIM HUGE LAND DEAL IS SWINDLE

Suspicion Holds Promoter of 180,000 Acre Land Project in Mexico

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—Charged with fostering a plan to defraud several persons out of $350,000 in a Mexican "land deal," A. Heinrich, 57, was held in the city jail today pending further investigation by detectives and the grand jury.

According to detectives of the district attorney's office Heinrich was arrested after five days of careful investigation of his alleged fraudulent activities.

It was reported to the police that M. J. Gallagher deposited checks aggregating $350,000 in an Oakland bank to Heinrich's credit. The money was held in escrow, however, pending the formation of a land and packing company, which was to purchase 180,000 acres of land near Tepic, Mexico.

Gallagher later became suspicious and wired his Chicago bank to withhold payment of the checks until he had investigated further. Evidently tired of waiting, Heinrich came to Los Angeles and offered jobs as "foreman" to several local people.

W. C. Crandall, retired rancher, was offered the "job" and asked to deposit $5,000 bond, which he did. Crandall then became suspicious and reported the matter to the police. An investigation was started and Heinrich was arrested.

COAL STRIKE END WITHIN FEW DAYS

Governor Pinchot Draws Up Working Contract for Owners and Miners

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—President Coolidge today sent a telegram to Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, congratulating him on his success in bringing an end to the anthracite coal strike.

By GEORGE E. DURNO For International News Service HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—Formal termination of the 1923 anthracite strike within the next few days appears assured.

Successful in his fight to bring the anthracite operators and miners together on common grounds of settlement, Governor Gifford Pinchot today was pushing forward with all haste work of drawing up a working contract which will formally terminate the hard coal strike.

The operators and miners will meet again in the governor's office today to continue drawing up the new working agreement which it left last night shortly before midnight.

As the situation now stands indications are that Governor Pinchot's four main proposals have been accepted.

The principal matters to come up at today's conference are the eight technical demands originally made by the miners and not included in the four point settlement basis put forward by the governor.

The note provides that the investigation commission shall have a Japanese chairman with British, French and Italian delegates. No mention was made of Greek membership on the commission.

The note did not mention the word "evacuation," merely saying that the conference recognizes that Italy's occupation of Corfu and neighboring islands had for its only object the obtaining of satisfaction. The note was worded (Continued on page 5)

CHARLES GUTHRIE TELLS OF MEXICO

Returns From Business Trip To Hermosillo, Where He Invests Heavily

Mexico is a country which is much misunderstood by Americans in the opinion of Charles B. Guthrie, Realtor, of 1641 Grandview road, who returned to his office at 110 West Broadway this morning immediately following a trip into the heart of Old Mexico.

Mr. Guthrie was accompanied by Dr. S. A. Williams and Howard Gates, both of Los Angeles.

Hermosillo, which is about 175 miles south of the border and 66 miles east of the Pacific coast, was the destination of the trip, which was made by train via Tucson and Nogales, Ariz.

Make Large Ranch Deal
The purpose of the trip was to conclude the purchase of the San Carlos and San Henrique 33,500 acre ranch, being about thirty miles west of Hermosillo. Mr. Guthrie is very enthusiastic about this property which consists largely of bottom land along the Sonora river. He stated that its value has almost tripled during the six months that an option upon it has been held by this syndicate. Definite plans for marketing the land have not been formulated by Mr. Guthrie.

By a coincidence, the party was in Hermosillo, which is the capital of Sonora, last Saturday night and attended the inaugural ball for Governor Alvaro Bey. With this was combined a celebration in honor of Mexico's recognition by United States.

Praises Business Men
The high type of Mexican citizens attending this ball was a revelation to Mr. Guthrie. He stated that they can be compared only with a group of the most representative business men of Los Angeles.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Gates has spent about twenty years in Mexico and knows many of its prominent citizens, Mr. Guthrie was introduced to many of them and was given a real insight into Mexican life.

The culture and refinement of the upper class Mexicans made a most favorable impression upon the Glendale man. He asserted that they make quite a contrast to the American "rowdies" who now visit Mexico for the sole purpose of staging jamborees.

Last Summer Meet

The meeting of the Parliamentary Law Study club, which was held yesterday morning in the Public Library, was opened by Mrs. C. H. Whitney and later Mrs. A. H. Brown was appointed presiding officer in charge.

This was the last meeting of the season of the club, and inasmuch as the members have derived considerable benefit from the summer class, it was thought advisable to continue the study of Parliamentary Law. Therefore, the principal feature of the business meeting consisted in the reorganization of the club. It was decided to hold the next meeting October 5, at the Public Library, at 10 o'clock a. m. Mrs. H. Greenwalt will remain as instructor of the class.

During the business session a letter received from Mrs. Charles H. Toll was read, in which she congratulated the members of the club on the splendid work they have been doing.

Plans were completed for the party to be held Friday afternoon, September 14, at the home of Mrs. Claude Putnam, 424 North Glendale avenue, from 2 to 5 o'clock. This affair is being given for the members of the club, their friends and specially invited guests.

PENDROY'S PARTY PLEASES KIDDIES

Clever Program, Late Styles, Gifts for Little Ones, Makes Friends

The kiddies' party and fashion show, given yesterday afternoon at Pendroy's, proved to be one of the outstanding affairs of the mid-summer season. Hundreds of children and adults were present to witness the program and fashion show presented by popular little tots of Glendale.

The Woods' school of "kleeve kiddies" presented several enjoyable numbers, including dancing, singing, and readings, which greatly delighted the many little friends. The following program was presented:

Sun dance by Charles Reeves, Chinese dance by Joseph Taylor, fairy dance by Evelyn Molze, reading and dance, "Alice Blue Gown," by Kathleen Woods, reading and dance, "Fish—Fish—Fish," by Dorothy Woods, story of the Magic Bottle by Mrs. Nanno Woods.

Latest Styles
The fashion show excelled anything that has previously been given by Pendroy's in displaying the latest that Dame Fashion has created for children in the way of fall-wearing apparel. Dainty frocks of finest fabrics, ribbon-trimmed, embroidered or tailored models, and fashioned in the latest styles for all ages, were displayed by the following children: Betty Russell and Florence O'Brien, aged 2 years; Mary Jane McPhail, aged 3; Ilean Crane, aged 5; Louise Walton, aged 6; Katherine Evans, aged 8; Doris Hanna and Evelyn Apfel, aged 10, and Shirley Otter, aged 12.

In addition to this, there were many surprises for the children. George Damon, dressed in a gay clown costume, gave to each child up to 10 years of age, who was accompanied by an adult, a beautiful, real gold rinceau.

All the kiddies who attended the party yesterday afternoon declared it to be the "best ever." These kiddies' affairs are being given each summer under the special direction of Mrs. Earl C. Pendroy and are events long looked for.

HOME FROM VISIT IN NATIVE LAND

Mrs. C. A. Redmond Sees
Her Mother for First Time in 21 Years

A visit with her mother whom she had not seen for twenty-one years, was the feature pleasure of a long summer trip just concluded by Mrs. C. A. Redmond of 331 West Harvard street, who arrived in Glendale this week after three months' travel across the continent, then across the Atlantic to her old home in Sweden, and a visit in England.

When Mrs. Redmond left Glendale she stopped en route east for visits at Salt Lake City, Chicago, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and New York City.

The trans-Atlantic trip was made on the mammoth liner Berengaria, a Cunard liner, formerly the Imperator. It is a liner of 52,000 tons and according to Mrs. Redmond it is a wonderful experience to travel overseas on such a floating palace.

Sees Industry Display
While in Sweden Mrs. Redmond attended the industrial exposition at Gothenburg. "The Swedish people may well be proud of their fine exposition," says Mrs. Redmond. "It is a detailed display of their accomplishments in industry."

While abroad Mrs. Redmond spent a week in England.

Her return trip was on the Mauretania, another Cunard liner, but smaller than the Berengaria, being a liner of 32,000 tons.

FLOWERS, LIGHTS, SET OFF BUICKS

Tanner & Hall Showrooms Bower of Beauty for Display of Cars

Attractive decorations of the entire Tanner & Hall showrooms and shop at 237 South Brand form an effective setting for the display of 1924 Buicks that are on exhibition today to show prospective buyers the range of models that are embraced in the new line.

The front of the establishment, where the open chassis is shown, is banked with palms and ferns, with window boxes filled with geraniums in flower, while the service department has been transformed into an effective showroom by the addition of white hangings, on which the words "1924 Buick" is repeated at intervals. These hangings form a background that helps to set off the striking lines and body designs of the new cars, while the masses of pepper fronds that depend from the wires that are strung overhead add a dash of color to the scene that is most appealing and artistic.

Palms and a carefully arranged lighting system also lend their aid in transforming the department that is devoted to the display of the cars into a bower of beauty that has been winning enthusiastic encomiums from the throngs of visitors who have called to inspect the new Buick models.

Three Auto Crashes In Glendale Streets

An automobile belonging to M. H. LaFountain, 715 South Brand, was damaged, and Mrs. E. H. Dennis of Los Angeles was badly shaken up yesterday when the car driven by Mr. Dennis crashed into the La Fountain car as it stood by the curb. Dennis stated that he had turned to replace the covering that had blown off some ice that he was carrying in his car and while his attention was thus distracted the collision occurred.

Mrs. Anna M. Geiger, 627 North Central, collided with an ornamental light standard between Orange and Central, on West Broadway, yesterday afternoon, breaking two light globes. The car driven by E. H. Graham, 1120 East Colorado, was slightly damaged in a collision with a car driven by William Shippey of Los Angeles, the crash occurring at the intersection of Colorado and Verdugo road.

COMMENT That's All

Publicity Gets Recognition
Warm Days Are With Us
Religious Observance
Joy of Accomplishment

By Gil A. Cowan

PUBLICITY other than that distributed by the Chamber of Commerce is advertising Glendale throughout the nation. An item regarding the new Buick four-wheel brakes, appearing in The Glendale Evening News of August 11, has been republished by the Consolidated Press Clipping bureau of Chicago and distributed to all Buick dealers.

In the same publicity sheet are clippings from the Chicago Evening Post, San Francisco Chronicle, Augusta, Ga., Herald, Allentown, Pa., Chronicle, and Charlott, Mich., Tribune.

When you advertise in the Glendale Evening News you gain national recognition, which is a factor to be conjured with. The local dealers, Tanner & Hall, feel gratified, of course.

Proud may Glendale be of its Pyramid of Sciots. Their parade last evening was a credit to the community. This jovial order has made a record in organizing here and their band performed magnificently.

Better yet, however, is the good feeling the Sciots engender among neighboring communities possessing Pyramids. The tireless workers who have made such a success in the recent organization work and membership drive are deserving of a deal of praise.

The Glendale Evening News is gratified to chronicle the events of such fraternity and brotherhood, and to fulsome fun as the Sciots enjoy. It is a lodge of Free Masons that appreciates the better things in life. And its membership is composed of men tried and true. May Glendale Pyramid prosper.

Yes, we have no winter weather! The past few days have been warm enough to suit anyone. Yet the weather man reports that our climate is not unbearable. There is little humidity in the atmosphere, and little or no suffering from the heat is reported in Southern California.

The week end will provide enjoyable relief for owners of motor cars who may lie away to the mountain retreats or enjoy the day at the beach nearby. Or if you do not possess an automobile the Pacific Electric provides ample transportation.

Tomorrow is a day, also, for religious observance. How thankful the people of this city and this state and this nation should be that no great catastrophe has overtaken us, such as the Japanese disaster.

We should give thanks for the prosperity and happiness and sanctity we enjoy here in this blessed land of ours. At the same time we should be charitable to other mortals who need our aid.

Columns could be written on the subject, sermons will be preached and many thoughts will turn from the happiness of our world to the tragedy and horror so recently enacted.

Yet we must keep faith that God is good. And in that trust may we proceed to improve our earthly stay day by day.

Speaking of religion and we find in a contemporary coast publication the following words of wisdom:

"The religion of business is to build up a solid going concern—to build it up, not for the purpose of making money, but for the joy of accomplishment. The money rewards will follow."

The joy of accomplishment is the ecstasy of life. Take the daily duties away from man and he deteriorates.

Mere money, false pride, double dealing—all mean nothing to the God-fearing, honest man who strives to do his best.

A person may purchase his way to notoriety, but not to fame. An epigram in a Los Angeles newspaper tritely said, "Conceit is the banana on the step of fame."

It behooves a person to follow the advice of Franklin, "Keep your shop and it will keep you." A business is built on confidence. A good reputation cannot be charred by the flames of false insinuation. For, in the final analysis the people are the judge and jury. They weigh the evidence, they take the measure of the man and nothing said or done can contradict success as it is gained by those who serve the best.

Mercenary interests no longer succeed. The public has been taught to think for itself. And it does.

Business has to have religion. Otherwise there is no business. Do not misunderstand, however, Religion is not alone that which preachers teach. It is demonstrable and practical in daily life.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"My Dear Doctor: I want to emphasize 'My' for, unbeknown to you, you merit that. When you began your reducing instructions in our paper I fell in line. I started out on the shrinking stomach period with the first crusaders. I had no difficulty at all, just simply followed your advice and reduced twenty-three pounds in the next twelve weeks. I felt better than I had for years and got rid of asthma, breathlessness and other things. I am still holding my own, and am letting you know that I belong to your crowd. I was 72 last March, but seem to be growing younger instead of older. Will you please write something on cancer sores in the mouth? Yours faithfully and sincerely, P."

I run these wonderful letters I am getting, not because they are so complimentary to me, although I love that, of course—but because they are the most potent things I can do to bring others into the fold. I know that, because half the letters I receive tell me that the writers were encouraged to start dieting to attain normal weight by some letter from a follower that I had printed.

I have had so many letters from those who have reduced, stating that they had been relieved from asthma, varicose veins, skin disorders, irritation of the bladder and other disorders simply by reducing their weight, I really feel that if I wrote on no other subject besides weight reducing, I would cover most of the known ills of mankind. Thank you very much, Mrs. P., for writing.

Canker sores are little ulcerations of the mouth which may be due to irritation, such as too hot food or too acid—for instance, sometimes eating many acid lemon drops will cause them; or they may be due to an irritation arising from faulty diet in other ways. They may be touched up with a little mild caustic, such as burnt alum, or they may be touched with argyrol, a silver nitrate preparation (lunar caustic). The mouth should be washed frequently with boric acid solution, a tea-spoonful to a pint of water.

Mrs. E.: The cause of warts is not known. We know that they are more or less contagious—or, at least, that a person who has a wart can seem to get others from that one (auto-inoculation). For instance, if you have a wart on the inside of your finger, another may come opposite it. Warts are very common in children. They may be smooth or uneven, the color of the skin or some shade of yellow, brown or black. Sometimes they occur elsewhere than on the hand. One variety occurs on the soles of the feet. They look like callous places and they are often very painful.

Treatment: Warts often disappear without any treatment. Sometimes painting with tincture of iodine will remove them. They may have to be removed by electrolysis or other operative work. In the country, children's warts will sometimes go away if they are rubbed with juice of the common milkweed.

My little nephew—I think I will have to say my big nephew now, for he has longed long trousers since I saw him last—had a good-sized wart on his hand for which he asked my professional advice. Not getting prompt treatment (you know about the shoemaker's children never having shoes), he took the matter into his own hands and proudly showed me one day that the wart was all gone. He had rubbed a fresh slice of raw potato over it every day! You might try that.

The colloid corn remedy will remove them sometimes (one dram of salicylic acid to one ounce of colloid).

Warts in elderly and old people, that are in the position where they are irritated, may be a source of cancer. So if they do not go away after a short period of simple home treatment—not caustics—a surgeon should be consulted.

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The only way for which you must enclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 250 words. I will answer you personally, or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use any anonymous letters. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the columns as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Now drain it and to seven pounds of the rind add two and one-half pounds of sugar, one and one-half pints of vinegar, one ounce each of allspice, whole cloves and stick cinnamon (in a small muslin bag) the juice and rind of one orange and also of one lemon; boil this mixture slowly for forty minutes, then turn it into glass jars. SIMPLE AND ALLURING

A little wool and a little silk are very dainty when woven together in a challis frock, such as is pictured here. The neck of the dress may be finished either in oval or square neckline, and while the sleeves are short, they may be lengthened, if preferred, and trimmed with bands to correspond with the flounced idea of the skirt. Neck, sleeves and flounces are finished with fancy ribbon. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material and 8 yards of ribbon.

FOR EPONGE OR CREPE

Either wool or cotton eponge may be used for the development of this frock, one of the most appealing of the straightline models. There are plaits at the shoulders and the front of the dress is slashed in from the underarm seams, with the gathered lower edges sewed to the upper edges. Narrow braid trims the collar and cuffs of the one-piece short sleeves. Medium size requires 4 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—I am a boy in my teens and have been going with a girl two years my senior. Once when I took her to a dance another girl told me she was crazy about me and that she carried on indecently with other boys. The girl who told me this has been a friend of my family's and has always been truthful. I don't know much about this other girl, and so I have a reason to believe my friend. This other girl speaks to me, but I don't encourage it.

Do you think the girl I have loved is innocent and the other guilty? Puzzled Chap.

Your friend certainly knows how to be "catty" and to mind other people's business. Even if she told the truth I most decidedly question her wisdom in carrying tales, and I am inclined to believe she is a tattler. I am prejudiced against her. Judge for yourself the character of the girl you have loved. If she seemed sweet and good in her relationship to you, do not doubt her until you have better reason to do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—I am considered a very pretty girl by many people. I am 16 years old and am well liked by the girls, but it seems as if the boys did not care for me. Could you tell me why?

When I go out with a boy I am quite independent for I will hardly let a boy touch me. I always try to be ladylike and polite to them, but it all seems in vain. The rest of the girls are going to dances and why am I not? Is it because I try to do what is right too much? I love him dearly. Mother gets very angry because I am not asked places by my other friends. I go around with girls one, two or three years my senior. Please tell me what I can do to make myself popular with boys? I am a very neat dresser also.

DOWN-HEARTED.

We all have a fault of regarding ourselves with tender prejudice. Instead of looking for bad points, we admire our good ones, and feel decidedly satisfied with ourselves. Since we all have faults it would be quite an advantage to be able to see them ourselves.

As assets you say you are good-looking and a very neat dresser. Are you intelligent? Have you a loving heart? Probably you can truthfully answer "yes" to both of these questions, and yet you are not popular.

Sometimes girls are loved because they are good and sweet. Other times they are not so good and yet they are just as deeply loved. There is a magnetism which attracts men and it is neither possessed by the good nor the bad of the earth.

It is a fine thing to be independent, but do not be so much so that you are cold and unsympathetic, and at times rude. A loving heart and a desire to shield others from hurts are qualities which are invaluable in making friends.

My advice is to forget yourself for a while and make a study of other people. Try to understand and sympathize with the people you meet. I do not mean that you should sympathize audibly, but when you get the other person's point of view you will be more attractive to that person. It is not hopeless because you are not popular. There are very few girls who can claim popularity, and yet most girls are deeply loved by some one sooner or later.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—I am a girl 18 years old and I am going with a man 26 years of age. My parents do not object to my going with him, but his parents think I am too young. What would you advise me to do? I love him dearly.

The man is old enough to make his choice of a girl without any assistance from his parents. Never mention their distaste for you and continue to go with him as if it did not exist.

FOODS THAT MAKE FAT

To be healthy, everyone needs to eat foods containing fat, protein, carbohydrates, mineral salts, water and that unanalyzable part known as the vitamins, the life-giving element without which the biggest eater starves to death. But, as vitamins are contained in practically all foods, certainly in all fresh foods, and as a comparatively small amount is necessary to life, there's no need to worry about them this time.

A fat person can do without much fat in the food, because the body automatically begins consuming its own fat, as the camel consumes his stored-up hump of fat on a desert trip. So any reduction diet must eliminate most fatty foods. And those to avoid entirely are:

Ham, pork, bacon, cuts containing fat, thickened soups or gravies, potatoes, beans, nuts, oils, sugar, whole milk, cream or butter.

This list contains more than it seems to, for to avoid eating the things it mentions you must do without cakes and pies and puddings, ice cream, candy and such things, which of course you adore. You can't, I may as well confess, do without a little of these forbidden things in that you eat, unless you have foods cooked specially for you.

You can have fruit—by the way, bananas and grapes are taboo—cooked with saccharine instead of sugar, though it may be pleasant, and it's certainly healthier, to eat the fruit raw. Some oil, some fat, some flour or starch will go into cooked foods, but avoid such things when you can, and use lemon or vinegar, not oil, on your salads, or mayonnaise made with tasteless white mineral oil, which is slightly laxative and not fattening.

It's worth trying. Think ahead how you'll enjoy your slim figure and your fresh young face again!

Jane: As you have attained most of your height at 15 years of age, you have not had a chance as yet to fill out; however, with each year now you will find your weight increasing with your maturing figure.

Blacky: If you feel that your face is too stout, have some skillful massage done, but do not try to do this for yourself unless you know where the different muscles are located and just how to manipulate each in the massage movements.

Charlie S.: Fever blisters come from a bad digestion, sometimes resulting from a cold, but usually from sluggish conditions. To treat these blisters, soften the skin with a cream and then bathe with spirits of camphor. After the blisters have fully formed, open them carefully with a sterilized needle, and bathe with a solution of peroxide of hydrogen; then rub on a healing cream such as a cream that contains a little borax. As you are subject to these attacks, it would be well for you to correct the cause for them.

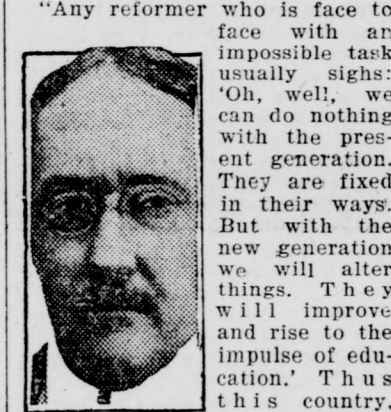

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

TIMELY VIEWS-WORLD TOPICS

"OUR PROBLEM LIES IN THE EDUCATION OF SECOND GENERATION," STATES JAMES W. GERARD

James W. Gerard, former American ambassador to Germany, said recently:

"Any reformer who is face to face with an impossible task usually sighs: 'Oh, well, we can do nothing with the present generation. They are fixed in their ways. But with the new generation we will alter things. They will improve and rise to the impulse of education.' Thus this country, faced with the difficulties of assimilating a large immigration of totally dissimilar races, has often been unable to make much impression on the first generation. But the second, having passed through American public schools, has speedily become American. As we all know it is almost impossible to eradicate the things that have been learned in childhood. Therefore, let us raise the child with ideals of country and of life. He must not assimilate prejudices. We wish to remain a free people and have the world free to all worthwhile ideas."

"LEAGUE HEALING EUROPE'S ILLS," SAYS RETURNED PROFESSOR

The European crisis is making the economic work of the league of nations stand out as the most practical way of bringing about the conditions necessary to get the Old World back to work," Charles Hodges, assistant professor of foreign trade at New York university, declared recently in discussing the league's relations to Europe's business recovery.

"Every leader in the commerce, industry and finance of the world recognizes that the fundamental trouble today lies in European politics, making it virtually impossible for the business of nations to be carried on under the after-the-war burdens," said Hodges. "Everything that is needed for the restoration of the world's prosperity is within reach; but European political conditions have been allowed to stand in the way of international sanity. 'The difficulties of European business—and that means the stability of European nations in these days of Bolshevism and international unrest—fall into four groups.

In the first place, blocking free commercial relations. Here the league of nations is doing a great work, improving Europe's communications by meetings of nations such as the Barcelona conference on communications and transit held some eighteen months ago; laboring for less burdensome customs restrictions, as in the forthcoming congress on tariff procedure, regulations and passports; and the drafting of international conventions carrying out such reforms.

"Then there is a second group of business problems based upon individual competition. The league of nations is, through the international labor organization, working to eliminate friction arising from what may be called unfair competition, the exploitation of labor, etc.

"A third phase of the world's business troubles arises from the very magnitude of the modern international economic relations, making it hard to know what is happening. By means of expert investigation, on the scale that neither individual government nor business itself could initiate, the league of nations is acting as a great clearing house for international economic surveys. Economic conditions everywhere are being summarized monthly in general, and special expert committees representing all national points of view are working on particular problems.

"Finally, this machinery of economic betterment has been set in motion for the restoration of parts of Europe, notably in the financial reconstruction of Austria, the key to stability in southern Europe."

Bill is a suburbanite. One afternoon an old cousin invited him to a city home where home-brewing and pseudo-scientific distillation had produced things that cheer. Bill lost his bearings, at about midnight, and a friend took him to the station, Judge informs us.

Later, very much later, he approached his home to the music of the early birds, entered carefully, proceeded noiselessly to the room occupied jointly by himself and his wife, and undressed with great care lest a careless move might give his wife a hint of his guilt. Getting into bed, he felicitated himself on the fact that he appeared his normal self. The wife seemed to be sleeping peacefully. As he settled in place, Mrs. Bill turned over, looked at him and remarked: "Hadin't you better take off your glasses?"

CHAMP SPOILING FOR REAL FIGHT

Dempsey Supremely Confident He Can Handle Luis Next Week

By MAX KASE
For International News Service
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, N. Y., Sept. 8.—If confidence is the necessary requisite for a successful battle, then it can be said today that Jack Dempsey can be assured of victory in his forthcoming fight with Luis Firpo.

Every action of the champion exudes faith in himself, such as he has not exhibited since he started training in defense of his title. It is not the feeling of a braggart, but supreme confidence in his own ability which makes Dempsey say he will beat Firpo.

"I have been spoiling for a real fight—one of those regular slug-fighting matches for a long, long time," Dempsey said today. "This Firpo battle gives me the chance. I certainly will be glad when the old gong bangs because then I can step right out and begin socking with everything I've got and know the joy of mixing it, toe to toe, with somebody big enough and dangerous enough to hand it back."

"Ready for 50 Rounds"
Dempsey, as good a judge of his own condition as the best of trainers, said he was in excellent shape and ready if necessary to travel fifty miles.

"The very last thing that worries me about Firpo is his terrible punch," the champion added. "Among the whole lot of Firpo's knockout victims, he did not meet a real hitter."

Dempsey was asked how long Firpo would last.
"How game is that bird and how much padding can he take?" was his answer. "Tell me that, and I'll tell the round that will end the fight."

The champion is now paying particular attention to speeding up his footwork. He is working out with Alex Trabimbas, a middleweight, and Billy DeFore, the St. Paul featherweight.

FOOTBALL AGAIN IS BEARS' MEAT

University of California in Action Today With Class Clashes

BERKELEY, Sept. 8.—King Football again rules the University of California campus today. California field is again the setting for a group of some two hundred hard-working and eager candidates for football honors. Practice has been going on for ten days in preparation for the inter-class contests and Varsity and Alumni game to be the first games of the pre-preference season.

Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen are working out daily under the coaching of Varsity men and are getting in condition for the inter-class game today. At this time the elimination inter-class games will be held to decide which classes are to meet on September 15 to establish the football supremacy of the University.

The game which is creating the greatest interest however, is the Varsity-Alumni game to be held Saturday, September 22. At this time virtually all the stars of the 1920-21-22 seasons will appear against a tentative Varsity eleven to be chosen by Andy Smith.

Conference rules prohibit the use of regular coaches until September 15 so that Andy Smith has not been able to get out on the field and give the candidates for Varsity and Freshman berths instruction. In the meantime all the members of last year's Varsity and Freshman squads are out on the field daily coaching the inter-class teams, and "warming up" for the real practice which is to start on the 15th.

TAGGING ALL BASES

The Cardinals took Cincinnati 5 to 1 in the first half of a two game clash, but dropped the second 8 to 5. Cincinnati gained half a game on the Giants by virtue of the McGrawmen's defeat by Philadelphia.

Howard Ehmke, a consistent winner this season, despite the lack of inspiration of the Red Sox support, hurled himself into baseball's hall of fame by shutting out the Athletics 4 to 0 without a hit.

The Dodgers continued on the slide, Boston hammering Vance and Decatur for a 11 to 1 verdict.

The Cubs hammered out Adams and Bagby in the first inning, scored six times and finished on the long end of a 6 to 4 tally in the game with Pittsburgh.

Cecil Causey, former Giant pitcher, has been unconditionally released by Toledo.

James Hudgins, a first baseman from Fairbury of the Nebraska State league, has been bought by the Cardinals.

Elks Band to Display Uniforms at Concert

A purple and white color scheme will be the decorative feature at the Elks meeting Monday night, when the lodge band will put on an exclusive fashion revue in their new uniforms, as well as present a program of five selections.

The concert will follow the regular weekly meeting, directed by Exalted Ruler James A. Appfel. Included in the business to be transacted will be final action of the Burbank charter, a matter that has been under consideration for some weeks.

The band program is announced as:
"Elks March."
"Slavonic Rhapsody."
"The Pals," cornet duet, L. E. Wilbur and C. K. Ashton.
"Yes, We Have No Bananas."

THE GLENDALE

"Sherlock Brown," with Bert Wyatt, based on a Bayard Vieller story, is the Metro film showing at the Glendale theatre today. A story of rare good humor and thrilling mystery, combined into a delightful comedy-drama of a young man's craving to be a detective.

During the luncheon a musical program, the Kiwanis members, by "Bill" Bode, was presented, some of the main numbers being contributed by Henry Cantor, the well-known operatic tenor, who sang, Herb Henning gave several piano selections. Mr. Bode also rendered a violin solo, "Jewish Lament" and a saxophone solo, as well as an encore to the first number.

The Kiwanis eclipse celebration at San Diego over the week end, which is expected to be the magnet for about 1500 Kiwanians from all over Southern California, will be attended by delegates from both Burbank and Glendale. The eclipse, which, according to Secretary Don Webb, is being staged especially for the benefit of the Kiwanis Club will be witnessed from the veranda of the Point Loma Golf Club. This is being turned over to the Kiwanians during their stay in San Diego and in its clubhouse Monday night will be held the principal banquet of the festivities.
The local party, which will make its headquarters at the Hotel Bronx, will be composed of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman P. Clark, Miss Virginia Clark and Richard Clark, Mr. and Mrs. George T. When it comes to representing things, Mr. Jackson is in his forte. He represents Uncle Sam as postmaster and Ma Glendale as a deputized police officer and Sister Los Angeles as a deputy sheriff. But, best of all, he represents himself, for he admits that he is the only one of his kind.
"You might say that I am a vocalist with a gift of gab," he remarked. "I used to be a tenor, but I am gradually getting over it."

However, he is taking along a bunch of music including Irish melodies and some others not so Irish for he just knows somebody is going to coax him to sing.
Mr. Waring has taken a prominent part in club activities. He was chairman of the local Exchange Club's Christmas cheer committee.

Although he will return by steamship from New York to New Orleans, Mr. Waring draws the line at cooking for the cruise. He recently refused to "cook his way" to the Hawaiian Islands upon the yacht Italia. It ended its portion of the sweepstakes race in a fire at sea. "Stump" is pleased to reflect that he was not among those present.
Poetry Gains Notoriety
The honor of being the poet laureate of the Glendale Exchange Club belongs to Mr. Jackson, who has a silver loving cup won by his ability as a verse slinger at the annual spring poets' dinner. His piece of resistance was entitled "Pretty Excuse Poem"—and rightly so, because it caused him to pay a fine of five dollars. Here is the reason in rhyme:
This country has many surprises
From the east coast to the west,
But the surprise that goes over best is the wonderful city of Glendale.
That has leaped ahead of the rest.

TALL AND SHORT

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson and W. C. Waring Go to National Meet

What "Rip" starts "Stump" finishes.
That happens when a Jersey mosquito and a New Jersey flea migrate to California is well illustrated in this case. Mr. Waring is from Montclair, N. J., and Mr. Jackson is from South Orange, N. J.
"The reason I am so tall? Because I have grown," Jackson, "I have been here seven years. 'Stump' has been here only three years. In another four years probably he will be as tall as I am."

Sports His Hobby

Mr. Waring is one of the most intrepid explorers and sportsmen of the Exchange club. Until recently he made his headquarters at 20 South Brand boulevard, the Army and Navy store. En route to Los Angeles, Mr. Waring was not content to come to California—the land of his dreams—but insisted upon visiting Yellowstone park, Crater lake and Yosemite. He likes nothing better than a week-end hunting or fishing trip and has made many of them in the Adirondacks and Catskill mountains of New York. His only regret at leaving upon a long trip at this time is the fact that he has not had an opportunity to take advantage of the opening of the deer season.

When it comes to representing things, Mr. Jackson is in his forte. He represents Uncle Sam as postmaster and Ma Glendale as a deputized police officer and Sister Los Angeles as a deputy sheriff. But, best of all, he represents himself, for he admits that he is the only one of his kind.

Radio to Yokohama

Direct radio communication with the devastated city of Yokohama has been re-established from this seaport.

Official and semi-official estimates of the loss of life in the Japanese disaster agree that for the big event are warned to take along their own camping equipment, as the chances of obtaining accommodations are reported to be slim indeed. And motorists will find the worst jams on the roads in the history of Southern California automobilism, it is said.

Need Smoked Glasses

Amateur scientists planning to observe the phenomenon either from here or other points are strongly urged to have the proper kind of eye-filters before attempting to stare into the spectacle of the eclipse, as eyesight has frequently been permanently impaired in this manner.
At Catalina Island the Yerkes observatory, together with the Washburn and Goodsell observatories, have set up special equipment to observe and study the eclipse. At San Diego and vicinity, there will be stations at Point Loma and Lakeside. At Mt. Wilson, where the magnitude will be over 98 per cent, observations will be made. In various points of Mexico, moreover, telescopes will focus on the eclipse—the Lick observatory at Ensenada; the Steward observatory at Hermosillo; the Sproul Expedition observatory at Yerbaniz; and the Mexican National observatories at Cuernavaca and Berrendo.

Check Up On Einstein

As a result of observations on the September 10, 1923, solar eclipse, astronomers expect to test the Einstein theory of relativity—which, if it could be proven beyond doubt to be a law of nature, would shatter the basic principle of Euclid, upon which geometry is founded, that "a straight line is the shortest distance between two points" and the further principle that "parallel lines never meet."

Isolated in Mountains

The fate of Myonoshita, a popular pleasure resort in the Hakone mountains, 40 miles from Yokohama, to which many prominent foreigners were accustomed to sojourn during the summer season, is unknown at the present time, according to the message. It is believed, however, that survivors have been cut off from communication with outside cities.
Hakone, another picturesque summer resort, was damaged to a considerable extent. Three foreigners were killed.

An American destroyer has been dispatched from Yokohama to aid the injured in coastwise cities and towns south of that city along Sagami bay.

AMERICAN—Irvin Lux of the Feltman company, New York; Raymond A. Aras, New York; daughter of C. E. Miller, San Francisco; C. W. Purington and two children; four children of J. Quinn of Honolulu; Miss Kuyper, principal of Serrie school; P. C. Burnell.
BRITISH—A. Iguira, G. H. May, J. Patterson, Mrs. W. T. Chisholm and child, F. S. Picken.

LEARN NEW AUTO LAWS! WARNS POLICE CHIEF

ONE MILLION PEOPLE TO COME BY MOTOR!

This Year's Figures Indicate All Traveling Records to Fall in 1924

STAGGERING figures in regard to the number of auto parties visiting the southern part of California from the east and northwest have just been issued by the Auto Club of Southern California, showing that approximately 234,000 autos carrying 936,000 persons will arrive here this year.

During the peak of transcontinental motor car travel, which is in July, it is estimated that more than 20,000 automobiles arrived in a period of thirty days in the southern part of the state.

This makes an average of 13,500 motor cars, carrying about 78,000 people, arriving in the southern counties of California every month.

IT IS ESTIMATED BY THE AUTO CLUB THAT MORE THAN 1,000,000 PEOPLE WILL ARRIVE IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA NEXT YEAR BY MOTOR CAR.

Transcontinental auto travel is one hundred per cent higher this year than it was last year, and it will be nearly one hundred per cent higher next year. Improved conditions on the transcontinental highways account for this ever-increasing flood of travel, says the club.

An actual check of transcontinental travel taken at Blythe by the quarantine station there operated by the United States department of agriculture, shows that 1,146 autos, carrying 4,692 persons, passed through that point during thirty days of August.

Heavy travel is also reported on the Bankhead Highway, on the National Old Trails, on the Lincoln Highway, on the Arrowhead Trail, and on the Midland Trail. Over the Pacific Highway, leading down the coast from Canada, Washington and Oregon, there have been 212 cars a day arrive in Southern California points during August, making a (Continued on Page 2)

Read Those New Auto Laws And Then Follow Out What They Say

California motorists should bear in mind that they are now under the sway of the new state automobile laws, which went into effect on September 1, and not forget that time-honored rule of the courts that "ignorance of the law excuses no one."

One of the most important points covered by the new law is the matter of speeding. Reasonable speed under conditions encountered and not mere observation of the set miles per hour limits will govern all cases, when the cop makes an arrest and hauls the offender before the court.

The motorist is required by the new Motor Vehicle Act to drive at a careful and prudent speed, not greater than is reasonable and proper, having due regard to the traffic, surface and width of the highway. See (Continued on Page 2)

Models Attract Great Deal of Attention; Motorists Make Inspection

By THOMAS E. RICKETTS
Glendale Dealer for the Oakland

AN entirely new Oakland Six has arrived. It is unquestionably an entirely new car, embracing practices and principles heretofore confined only to the more expensive automobiles. This new creation of the Oakland Motor Car Company outstrips every conception of what has been expected in a car that sells at the low price of the Oakland. And new low prices are in effect.

No attempt has been made to reduce quality in order to lower prices. On the contrary, many expensive features have been added which make the Oakland far lower in price by comparison than ever before.

Price reduction has been made possible by the expenditure of more than $2,000,000 in re-equipping the factory for automatic (Continued on Page 2)

Jimmy Murphy to Take Part In Italian Contest

JIMMY MURPHY will make his first appearance on his present trip to Europe on Tuesday, September 11, in the Italian Grand Prix. California's favorite speed son, at Monza on that day, will be at the wheel of a 122 in. California build speedster from the Los Angeles shop of Harry Miller, the world's master facing car builder.

On his last trip overseas, Murphy won the Grand Prix de France. This time Jimmy has little fear of much trouble from any of the speed cars Europe may turn out from the Peugeot, Sunbeam, Bugatti and Benz factories. It is the two other Harry Miller creations, piloted by the Marquis de Alzaga and Count Zborowski, respectively racing champions of South America and Europe, which he feels he will have the race of his life to beat if he expects to return to California with the Italian Grand Prix as a souvenir of his visit to sunny Italy.

Riley Brett, who will be Zborowski's mechanic in the Grand Prix, has cabled that the famous Los Angeles-mounted trio are in training at Monza mastering the tricks of the famous "figure 8" course.

Incidentally no word has yet come as to who will sit beside Jimmy, the Italian racing rules requiring two-man cars. "Cliff" Durant was to have crossed the pond as his relief driver, but was kept at home to supervise the building of the Miller-special the young president of the Durant Motor company of California is to pilot at Beverly Bowl on Thanksgiving Day.

Following the Monza race Murphy will cross the English Channel to compete at Brooklands on the 22nd, then return to the Continent for a race at Barcelona October 8.

Jimmy has cabled Miller that he will be back with his Durant special in time for the Los Angeles Turkey Day meet. Racing wiseacres are forecasting that Alzaga and Zborowski, or at least one of them, will return with Murphy for another go at one another at Los Angeles that day.

There has been approximately fourteen per cent more travel by touring automobiles through the central states, both east and west bound, during the first five months of this year than during the corresponding months of last year, according to statistics compiled by the Chicago Automobile club.

During the first five months in 1923, 17,443 motorists registered at the Chicago club, as compared with 15,153 during the first five months of 1922.

Whatdoyoucallem? Varied Names Put on Lowly Ford

WHILE Mah Jongg continues to be the chief parlor pastime, collecting names for Fords bids fair to claim pristine honors in the realm of outdoor sports. As many as fifty can be witnessed in a single afternoon, by the observing motorist. In this new diversification, the American genius for nomenclature seems to have reached its perichlorine.

The following are a few of the veritable thesaurus of synonyms for the common or garden variety of motor cars emanating by the millions from that titanic incubator at Detroit:

Leaping tuna, puddle hopper, spark plug, Lincoln pup, twin two, Henry IV, covered wagon (this for coupes and sedans), spider, tin six (how come?), traveling salesman, rolls rough, gas hound, and a hundred, a thousand more.

While the more long-winded and resourceful inscript on the rear of their vehicles such slogans as:

Detour left (with a bizarre arrow indicating the desired turn-out); Shake well before using; All wool and a yard wide; O Henry, bless his little heart; Dangerous but passable; One of the proletariat; You first—after me; Walking's a pleasure alongside of this; Hell-on-wheels; Don't laugh, girls, you'd look like heck, too, without any paint on; and innumerable others.

Like mushrooms, they spring up over night.

And Yet There's Only One Complete Copy of Vehicle Act in Glendale at Present, Is Belief; Anyhow, Study on Synopsis

By ARTHUR SHERBORNE
Of The Evening News Staff

SUGGESTION that motorists should immediately familiarize themselves with the new California Motor Vehicle Act was made this morning by Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police.

"The motoring public as yet is not thoroughly acquainted with the act," he remarked. "I would suggest that they immediately get copies of the new law and study it very closely. No doubt this will save motorists from getting into trouble unintentionally. Probably 90 or 95 per cent of the people want to comply with the new law but are not thoroughly familiar with it yet."

The obstacle to compliance with this suggestion lies in the fact that copies of this new legislation—with its circumlocution of legal verbiage—are not available. Colonel Fraser himself has been unable to obtain a copy of the law in all its detail, and even Judge F. H. Lowe has been obliged to borrow a copy of it. M. B. Towman, manager of the local branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California at 248 South Brand boulevard, stated yesterday so far as he knew there was only one complete copy of this law in all of Glendale.

The state printery does not intend to publish any copies of this law, in the opinion of Mr. Towman. He stated that sum-

Don't Experiment Buy a 1924 Studebaker

The 1924 Studebaker Light-Six Touring car, with its refinements and improvements, offers the closest approach to mechanical perfection in moderate priced cars yet produced.

It continues to set the pace in the amount of value for the money invested. No radical departure from approved design has been attempted. There's nothing experimental about it—everything of recognized merit. Every vital unit has proved its satisfaction in the public use.

No matter how much money you expect to invest in a car, by all means see this Light-Six Touring car, ride in it—and drive it yourself. It is then that you realize the difference.

New all-steel body of striking beauty. One-piece, rain-proof windshield with attractive cowl lights set in base. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Door curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with door. Removable upholstery in tonneau. Door pocket flaps with weights hold them in shape. Upholstered in genuine leather. Large rectangular window in rear curtain. Thief-proof transmission lock.

Comparison with other cars costing more—or less—will provide convincing proof of its greater dollar-for-dollar value, its dependable performance, ample power, extreme comfort, and many other desirable features.

The Light-Six is practically free from vibration because Studebaker machines the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. No other manufacturer follows this practice on a car at anywhere near the Light-Six price. This is just one of many superiorities.

After seventy-one years, the name Studebaker enjoys confidence and respect more than ever.

AVOID LOOSE PARTS

Every owner of an automobile should apply a wrench on every important nut and bolt on the car at least once a month. Nuts held by cotter pins may be passed by, but those held by loose washers will need to be tried with a wrench. A loose part may easily wreck the car and cause loss of life.

vere penalties will follow an infraction of this section of the new law, say state authorities. Under the new Motor Vehicle Act the following speed limits are prescribed:

You must drive at fifteen or less miles per hour in all business districts; at obstructed railway crossings; at highway intersections where the driver's view is obstructed; in going around curves where the driver's view is obstructed; and in passing schools when persons are entering or leaving the grounds.

In the residence district the speed limit is twenty miles per hour. Under conditions other than those mentioned the speed limit is thirty-five miles per hour. All of these limits apply to night as well as in the day time.

Some other provisions of the new law it will be well for motorists to remember are:

Address changes must be reported immediately to registration department.

Minimum age for automobile drivers is to be 14 years; for chauffeurs 16 years.

Loads carried on cars allowed six inches past hub caps on right side, nothing past hub cap line on left side.

Commercial vehicles must have windshields.

Vehicles must keep to right of the road. Cars being passed must not increase their speed while passing car is getting by.

Watch Your Turns! No turns can be made except at street intersections in any outlying district or built-up sections.

Hand signals must be given and from the left side of the vehicle only.

Any vehicle with a rear vision obscured must be equipped with a rear view mirror of some sort.

The Motor Vehicle Department will close on Saturday. New car and used car dealers can issue blue slips to buyers during that period so that the cars can be operated until certificates are made out.

total of 6,572 cars for the month.

Actual testimony secured from thousands of these auto parties shows that they are determined to see all points of interest in the southern part of the state before making their final decisions as to settling down, or before returning to their homes.

It is shown in the Auto club check that, where a few years ago every automobile carried an average of only two persons, the cars arriving at this time carry an average of four individuals. These parties report that so-called "dangers" of traveling over the long, long trails are mythical and that with proper care no trouble should be had.

HOW THEY REGISTER

In South America, Brazil has a motor vehicle for every 1,497 persons; Argentina, one for every 296, and Chile, one for every 455.

production. Considerable money is saved in the transportation of bodies from Detroit to Pontiac since the Fisher Body Corporation created its factory there for the exclusive production of Oakland bodies. Just how long these new lower prices will remain in force is only a conjecture, and when one weighs the quality embodied in this new car and the many expensive features included in the assembly, it is obvious that the new low price sets a new mark in high value for little money.

The most apparent change is the use of four wheel brakes, and in this respect the Oakland is the first car selling for less than $1,000 to be so equipped. These brakes are of the mechanical type with specially devised equalizers and cannot lock the steering apparatus of the car.

At first glance this new creation as it stands upon the showroom floor is an ensemble of beauty. Each line of each model melts away in graceful curves, gentle swells and concave surfaces until the transformation welds itself into the vision of a motor car.

Conforming to recent theories of design, the new Oakland 6-54 fairly hugs the ground. There is something about it that spells readability, and, from what those who have ridden in these new cars say, the car gives a new meaning to the word.

This lowering attends every feature, except the side panels, and these are higher than in the previous open cars in order to provide greater protection to the passengers as well as adding to the beauty of the car.

The radiator is a little more massive and is dropped down slightly between the frame members. An aluminum head separates the hood from the cowl as is the practice in costly motor cars, and the ventilator is flush with the surface of the cowl instead of resting on it as in the past.

The open models have heavier bodies with a distinctive molding just below the top of the sides. The doors are wide and substantial. The fact that even the open bodies are the product of the Fisher Body Company is evidence of the construction and beauty that are offered in these new cars.

The tops are permanent and are unusually low. The entire height of the car is but two inches more than six feet. By using permanent tops a new type of storm curtain can be used, and these eliminate the usual struggle in fitting curtains.

New Motor Power

An entirely new motor provides motive power for this newcomer. It is the same size bore and stroke as the 1923 Oakland, but it is of the L-head type and is said to develop 15 per cent more power than the former valve-in-the-head motor used by Oakland. This new motor is built entirely by the Oakland Motor Car Company and is interesting because of its many in-

U. S. Owns Most of World's Automobiles

The prosperity of the United States is plainly evidenced by the automobile industry when it is considered, according to figures quoted in Motor Land, that the people of this nation not only own more motor vehicles than those of any other nation, but that they own 84 per cent of all the motor vehicles on the globe. More automobiles were produced and sold in the United States last year than are owned by all the rest of the world. To quote figures, there were 2,659,064 motor vehicles manufactured in 1922 in the United States. Of this number only 78,549 were exported to foreign countries, while all the other nations of the world own only 2,263,474 motor vehicles.

novations of design. First of all, the motor can be detached at the head, at the base of the cylinders and at the crank case. This permits of greater accessibility than has heretofore been possible. The Ricardo type combustion chamber, which produces extremely high compression and brings the spark plug into position where it offers its maximum firing efficiency in relation to the gases in the chamber, is an exclusive feature. The crankshaft is heavier and the bearings are longer than in last year's motor, and the lubrication is by the force feed and hollow crankshaft system. Tests show that it is possible to stand a pencil on the end of an open door of the car and then raise the motor. The pencil will remain in an upright position. Vibration has been eliminated as far as is practicable in reciprocating motors. The water passages completely encircle the cylinders in this motor, and the valves, even though they have larger openings than before, are also provided with ample water circulation in order to increase their efficiency. A new type fan is also a feature. The adoption of the L-head type motor means the elimination of numerous working parts and bearing surfaces of the valves, and this means resultant less noise. Lubrication of the valves is automatic.

A new system of oil lubrication instead of grease is used throughout the chassis of the car. This makes it possible to force 600W or some similar oil into all the bearings instead of having it follow only the lines of least resistance as is the case with grease.

A new type axle is used in the rear. This is the banjo method of construction, which provides greater accessibility and added rigidity. It is semi-floating and the differential, ring gear, pinions and the third member are built up as a unit and bolted to the housing. The axles are made at the factory and the gears are the product of Brown Lips Chapin manufacture. Hyatt Heavy Duty roller bearings are used in the rear wheels and also to carry the differential. The pinion shaft and the differential are supported by New Department ball bearings. These are of a type that takes up both the thrust and the radial load.

The clutch is now of the single plate dry disc type and is so designed and built. Especially noteworthy is the ease with which shifts to lower speeds may be made. For example, it is possible to drive at thirty miles an hour in high gear and shift to second without a crashing of gears and without damaging the transmission. Incidentally, the new transmission of the Oakland is a vast improvement over its predecessors and is equipped with a lock as a safeguard against theft.

New Control Position The control of the car is entirely removed from the instrument board and is grouped in a compact arrangement at the top of the steering column. Here the horn button, the choke, the throttle and the ignition and lighting switches are quickly accessible.

The spark control is entirely eliminated by the adoption of an automatic advance and retard. This is an especially important improvement because there are so many people who do not know how to properly control the spark and this automatic method overcomes this. The instrument board, as a result, is extremely neat in appearance and the speedometer and oil gauge are enclosed under an oblong plate glass panel and illuminated by indirect lighting at night.

The new Oakland is made in seven attractive models. Touring car and Roadster are finished in Holland blue with red striping and disc wheels to match. The Sport Roadster and Phaeton are in a cerulean tone of blue with orange striping and disc wheels to match. The five-passenger Sedan, four-passenger Coupe and the Business Coupe are finished in blue with black upper structure, the latter being finished in fabric. Five disc wheels are standard equipment on all models. The paint used is known as Duco, and is a special paint that provides the same durable finish as a baked enamel job, but has the richness that has always characterized the finest paint and varnish work. Instead of being of a high finish, it has satin lustre and can be cleaned with an oily cloth without injuring the finish in any way.

A new method of rebound control in the springs also gives the car more comfort on rough roads. In tests the car was driven over deep ruts and "thank you mams" and those in the rear seat were amazed at the smoothness of the car. They would scarcely believe that the car was not equipped with shock absorbers of some kind.

CHEVROLET'S NEW COST AIDS SALES

Car at Present Prices Forms Better Value Than Ever, Agent Declares

With many orders already taken for Chevrolet cars at the new prices, which were reduced recently, C. L. Smith, Chevrolet dealer at Orange and Colorado, is confident that Chevrolet sales will increase during the coming months to their highest point.

"The Chevrolet car is even better today at the new price and nothing has been sacrificed in the manufacture of the auto," declares Mr. Smith. "There are even many improvements and each Chevrolet purchaser is getting more for the money than ever before."

"Car buyers should inspect the Chevrolet and procure the latest price list. I am sure they will be convinced that the new car gives them the greatest value for the amount paid," adds Mr. Smith.

G. L. Moffatt, a Chevrolet dealer from Graybull, Wyo., was a visitor to the local agency yesterday, after having driven from his home in Wyoming to Glendale over some of the worst roads a motorist ever encountered. The distance covered was 1,600 miles, and Mr. Moffatt averaged over 300 miles a day in a new Chevrolet touring car, averaging twenty-five miles an hour over 500 miles on account of the car's newness and getting an average of twenty-three miles per gallon. The entire trip consumed five days.

CIZEK TO ADJUST AUTO HEADLIGHTS

Provisions of Motor Vehicle Law to Be Carried Out By Local Firm

Notification has been received by the E. W. Cizek Auto Electric Co., 300 South Brand, that the firm has been appointed official headlight adjusters under the terms of the new motor vehicle law, and this appointment, which carries the number 14, makes this firm the first to be officially confirmed in Glendale, according to Henry M. Kuhn, a member of the firm.

All the information regarding the provisions of the new law and the requirements for headlights has been sent to the E. W. Cizek Company, and they are now prepared to carry out the duties for which they have been chosen.

Absolute zero, at which matter may cease to exist, is 459 degrees below zero.

NEW CONCERN TO ADOPT MAXWELLS

Executives of Beverage Firm Purchase Two Cars for Official Use

The new organization which recently took over the plant of the S. W. Brown Company, manufacturers of Green Hill beverages, have standardized on Maxwell cars for their business. A Maxwell sedan was delivered this week to William Roslington, president of the company, and a Maxwell coupe was delivered to Mr. Barnhart, vice-president and manager of sales of the organization.

"We adopted Maxwell cars for our business," says Mr. Roslington, "because we have been watching them carefully for the past year. Our men have had reports from more than one hundred Maxwell owners and we have yet to find a single owner of a 1922 or 1923 Maxwell who is not entirely satisfied with it. We made inquiry from the Southern California Edison Company, who now have more than one hundred Maxwell cars in service, many of them in use up in the Huntington Lake district, where the roads are cut out of the side of the mountains and the grade averages 15 to 20 per cent, and their reports confirm in every way that the Maxwell is standing up under the hardest kind of service with the lowest possible operating cost."

"Our Maxwell cars were purchased from the Glendale Motor Car Company, Maxwell and Chalmers dealers, of 124 West Colorado street. We purchased the cars through them because of the excellent service facilities and their reputation of standing back of the cars they are selling," said Mr. Roslington.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC FULL OF DANGER

Thousands of Cars Get Into Jam on L. A.-San Diego Highway Week-Ends

(Continued from page 1) week end when the eclipse of the sun and Admission Day come together, will be even worse, as San Diego and points in that region offer the best place from which to observe the eclipse.

Reports from San Diego that have reached Glendale state that every available reservation in the San Diego district has been taken, and a jam unprecedented in the history of the southern city is looked for from Saturday till Monday night.

Among the Glendale motorists who drove to San Diego over Labor day was Don Futhey, a member of the Packer Auto Company organization at 245 South Brand boulevard, and his account of the conditions that prevailed furnishes a graphic picture of what may be expected today, tomorrow and Monday on the roads between here and San Diego.

Thousands in Jam From a point four miles on the other side of San Juan Capistrano to Las Flores, thousands of cars were trying to buck their way through the traffic jam that banked the road with close packed double stream of cars, and drivers were forced to crawl along at a snail's pace for practically the entire distance between these two points. A party that included some friends of Mr. Futhey's was held in one spot for seven hours on a detour when a car was wrecked and three people were killed.

The normal traffic conditions were further complicated, especially on the trip home, by many road hogs who persistently violated every rule of the highway and threatened to cause accidents along every mile of the road, and Mr. Futhey attributes the marvelous escapes that many of them had either to the direction of a beneficent Providence or to sheer dumb luck, for the chances they were taking were enough to send a chill up the spine of a stone image.

Mr. Futhey and his party, as well as many other motorists, got a great kick out of the experiences of a foursome petting party that was traveling in a coupe that two persons would crowd. The driver of the foursome, working his car single-handed, and embracing his bobbed haired companion with the other arm, tried to pass a car on a curve just as a giant motor bus came sailing along from the other direction, and the crash that resulted brought joy to the motorists who had been forced to watch the antics of the party for several miles along a road that was already sufficiently filled with chances of trouble without being further complicated by the reckless behavior of the daylight lovers.

The driver of the coupe started to file a protest, but it died in his throat when the driver of the bus told him exactly what was going to happen to him if he said another word. The laughing crowds that had been stalled by the accident then pushed the shattered coupe up on the bank and drove on, leaving the petting party and their car stranded high and dry.

Tia Juana's own particular brand of entertainment was also held to be responsible for the actions of a number of drivers who seemed to think that road laws were mere arbitrary rules that could be disregarded with impunity, as they frequently were. Revenue officers, bristling with pistols and sawed-off shotguns, were posted at frequent intervals along the road from San Diego to Torrey Pines and furnished a thrill to the drivers as they forced cars to slow down while they inspected the license numbers and cast a suspicious eye over the occupants, evidently on the lookout for some particular quarry, but at the same time sizing up the procession for possible violators of the liquor regulations that are in effect at the border.

Life on the San Diego road, Mr. Futhey declares, is just one traffic jam after another during the holiday season, and no one who expects to make any sort of rapid time up or down the coast has any reasonable hope of accomplishing his object. Expert drivers can make the trip and get a certain amount of enjoyment out of it, but nervous persons or inexperienced drivers would be well advised to forego the sight of the eclipse and stick to less frequented roads.

BUYERS CONSIDER CAR INVESTMENT

Hudson-Essex Dealer Gives Interesting Sidelight on Purchases

"More than ever are buyers considering the purchase of an automobile as an investment pure and simple," says P. A. Kelley, of the Kelley Motor Co., 230 North Brand, Hudson and Essex dealers. "The big item in operating cost is depreciation. If the cost of the car can be spread over five years of service, it returns more for the investment than if it must be traded in or sacrificed at the end of two years. "Some cars show little actual depreciation even after speedometer totals reveal that the owner is riding 'on velvet' as it were. Such cars have been carefully handled. They have always had every needful thing the instant the need appeared. "You usually find that such cars came from a dealer who constantly maintained complete, up-to-date service facilities and made them economically available to all owners."

SPRINGS CRADLE NEW OVERLANDS

Engineers Adopt Method To Make Riding Easy In Late Models

When the Overland engineers were building the present car they spent a great deal of time in devising suitable springs for the machine, and as a result they patented the Triplex springs. They are the unique method adopted in mounting the springs so that the load of the machine is carried as in cradles between the two extremes of the automobile. The ends are 130 inches apart, so the body rests upon them just as if in a hammock. They are something like a wheelbarrow which a man is endeavoring to push over a curbstone. When it won't push he turns around and pulls—demonstrating what cannot be done by pushing can be accomplished by pulling. The same principle applies to the Overland Triplex springs, according to H. C. Kennedy, sales manager of Smith, Sloan, Inc., 228 South Brand, distributors for the Overland and Willys-Knight cars.

Auto Sign Post System to South Will Be Changed

A COMPLETE revision of the great sign-posting system leading across America to Southern California has been undertaken by the Auto Club of Southern California.

Two thousand miles of sign-posts leading motorists directly to this part of the state over the National Old Trails Highway and its tributary links will be completely revised at the conclusion of an inspection trip just commenced by the sign-posting department of the club. Many of the signs, which are enameled metal on metal posts are reported to have been destroyed by vandals since the last renovation two years ago. Sign notes will be taken by the club crew for the replacing of all mutilated signs and the revision of the route wherever necessary. A sign-mile will serve to guide motorists Pacific-ward after the new system is installed. The club inspection trip will continue on to New York.

NEW MODELS ARE LURE TO BUYERS

Late Hupp Car Draws Many Motorists to Inspect Styles for 1924

Visitors to the Bartlett & French showrooms in the building that has been secured at the corner of Brand and West Harvard for the display of the new R-12 model Hupmobile kept the officials on the job until 10 o'clock last night explaining the fine points of the car, according to Lanier Bartlett, one of the partners in the firm, and a large number of orders has been booked since the display was started. Delivery on the orders that have been taken will be made next week, Mr. Bartlett declares, especially on the open models, but a short delay will be necessary before the closed cars can be turned over to their purchasers.

"The reception accorded the new model Hupmobile cars has shown conclusively that there is keen demand for something new and that the motoring public appreciates changes and improvements," declares Mr. Bartlett.

DELIVERY COSTS TO BE REGULATED

Jobber's Secretary Promises Auto Dealers Situation Will Be Changed

Assurances that the present system of delivery charges made by the jobbers in sending shipments to Glendale would be regulated so that the charges of discrimination against the automobile dealers of this city would not prevail in future were given the Glendale Automobile Dealers association at their meeting in Jensen's Egyptian Village this week, when H. W. Biddle, secretary of the Accessory and Hardware Jobbers association of Los Angeles discussed at length with the members the possibility of reducing the charges that are imposed on goods shipped here. Mr. Biddle admitted that Pasadena and Hollywood are favored by the jobbers, but he insisted that some method would have to be found by which these points would bear the forwarding charges as no reduction could be made to Glendale dealers in the shipping charges without tacking the reduction on to the price of the merchandise.

C. E. McStay, field secretary of the Automobile Club of Southern California, was present at the luncheon and agreed to be present again at an early date to discuss the insurance work of the club.

A committee consisting of Jesse E. Smith, James French and Wm. Tanner was appointed to call on the new dealers in Glendale and solicit their memberships in the association.

FORD SHOWS NEW TYPES OF AUTOS

Improved Body Lines Make Latest Models Present Attractive Design

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 8.—Introduction of a higher radiator, bringing new and improved body lines to all types of Ford cars, is announced today by the Ford Motor Company, according to information reaching Jesse E. Smith, 125 West Colorado, local agent. The changes have just gone into effect and the various types are now in production.

While the larger radiator has been made standard on all types and while it has made possible other betterments in body design, there is no radical departure in construction, but rather a general improvement which has resulted in more graceful lines.

The new radiator sits an inch and a half higher than the former and has an apron at the bottom which joins a similar apron effect of the fender on either side, giving a highly finished appearance to the front of the car. The larger radiator also increases cooling efficiency.

Most conspicuous among the new types is the Ford Coupe which is of entirely new body design and construction, resulting in a more trim exterior appearance, more comfortable seating arrangement and a greater luggage carrying capacity.

Marked, too, is the improvement in the four door sedan. Highly popular since its introduction a year ago, because of its low, graceful lines, the car now presents even much better lines and a sturdier appearance.

In the open type, the touring car and runabout, the cowl has been enlarged and flows in a graceful curve to the higher hood. These new Ford types and the generally recognized performance ability of the Ford under all motoring conditions, promise to bring a greater demand than ever before as the public becomes more fully acquainted with the higher standards and greater values which have been incorporated. No changes are contemplated in the prices.

The coupe, the four door sedan and the touring car are now on display here and officials of the Jesse E. Smith organization urge prospective buyers to order their cars now, as the demand is already showing a marked growth.

BUICK'S DISPLAY DRAWS CROWDS

Buyers Can Check Up Every Claim Made for Cars, Declares Galvin

The opening of the display of the new models of the Buick sixes and fours in the Turner & Hall showrooms at 237 South Brand this morning was marked by the attendance of a throng of motoring enthusiasts who were anxious to see the entire showing of the new models that are claimed to be making such an important advance in the automobile industry, and, as the first day's showing of the new models, the firm has booked a number of orders for delivery as soon as the cars can be rushed to Glendale.

"Motorists who have been expecting much from the new Buicks have not been disappointed," declared Ray L. Galvin, sales manager. "The lists of new features that confronted them on the posters around the showrooms could be checked up on the open chassis that is shown and every claim made for the 1924 Buicks could be verified, so that they quickly perceived the advanced engineering principles that are a part of the new cars, while the appearance of the machines on display in the shop shows what the finished cars look like, aristocrats in every sense of the term."

In spite of the fact that Buick 1924 models are quoted at a slight advance in price over those of last year, buyers are clamoring for the new cars and are willingly paying the increased price.

PACKARD CAR IN MOUNTAIN GRIND

Hard Going Fails to Develop Any Defects in Auto, Driver Claims

Details of a hard grind that a Packard went through in a manner that proved its power and reliability have been reached by W. H. Daniel, local Packard agent, 510 East Broadway. The car was driven on a trip to the High Sierras, and the driver reports that many known makes of cars were observed to be stalled on the road, unable to make the grades that the Packard negotiated without difficulty.

In spite of the gruelling conditions incident to the trip through mountains and desert, the car showed no signs of material damage or wear at the end of it, and this, Mr. Daniel contends, bears out the claims that have been made for the Packard's ability to deliver real service over the hardest going that may be encountered by motorists in driving anywhere.

CLOSED CARS IN GROWING DEMAND

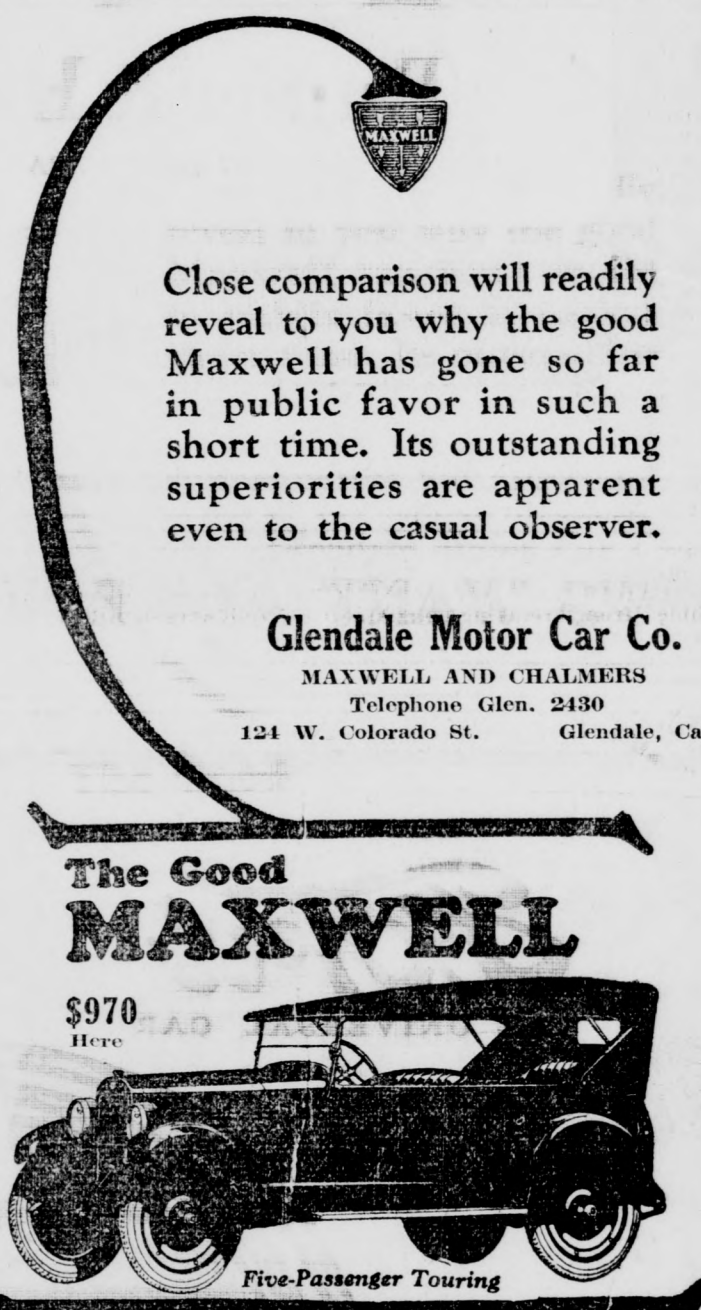

Approach of Cooler Weather Causes Buyers to Turn To Sheltered Types

With the approach of fall and winter the season for closed cars draws nearer, and the advance indications all point to the demand for closed models being greater than it has ever been, as motorists learn the advantages that this type of car possesses, according to Don C. Packer, of the Packer Auto Company, Studebaker distributors, 245 South Brand.

The Packer Auto Company, he declares, has taken special pains to be in a position to satisfy this demand for closed cars, and orders that were placed far in advance are now available for delivery in practically every Studebaker model, so that those who intend to do their motoring in comfort this winter can secure their new cars with a minimum of delay. The new closed cars in the 1924 line of Studebakers are built according to the latest demands of motoring requirements, embodying all of the features that stamp the Studebaker as a car that combines the knowledge and experience of seventy years, together with the refinements that are called for today by the fastidious automobile owner who insists on driving a car that can bear itself worthily in any company.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—Take a holiday in the subway, suggests a writer for the Paris "Presse" to the many unfortunate Parisians who are obliged to remain in the city during the summer heat. The "Metro" in these parts are almost as cool as any seaside resort, if not quite so airy. For the price of six sous, or two cents, one can travel fifty-four miles by following connections carefully. The scenery may be a bit monotonous, he agrees, but one can get plenty of good exercise by traveling up and down the stairs and jumping on moving cars.

Americans lead the world in air travel, according to statistics just compiled by the French aerial navigation service. Of all the air passengers who left Le Bourget flying field near Paris during the month of July last, 47 per cent were Americans. The next largest number came from the British, 39 per cent. Only 6 per cent were French citizens.

Recently the Alliance Republicaine of deaf mutes visited the large aviation field at Le Bourget under the supervision of Adolphe Cheron. About fifty of the members received their initial baptism to the air. When asked his impressions during the flight, the president of the alliance replied: "I have no words to express it," and another made a sign to indicate that he was speechless with enthusiasm.

An aeroplane is the best kind of insecticide, say the authorities at the Paris flying fields. It destroys bugs and insects by the millions. Upon the airships which enter the fields after a long flight are to be found many, many tiny spots of blood with numbers of insects, less of every size clinging to them. Curious detail, one never finds the wings and bodies of these victims which are struck violently by the propeller and often sucked into the inner machinery. Sometimes thousands of flies introduce themselves into the carburetor and prevent the machine from retaking flight. Thus an insignificant little insect is able to immobilize hundreds of horsepower.

American tourists will be grateful to Dr. Felix Regnault, who has just discovered a new method of avoiding seasickness. In reality it is a new sport called "amarage" and consists of gymnastic exercises with the legs and torso, which are capable of rendering the most rebellious stomachs rough and ready on an ocean voyage.

"It's all very well for the amaraige," says L'Intransigeant, "but Billy and Nannie were thinking of trying to set a little rooster in a cage free."

Just then some people came in to see the exhibits and one lady began to explain to her little girl that the rooster in the glass cage was a very rare one from China, where they have been breeding fowls for centuries, just to see how long they can get their tails to grow, and that they don't mind being shut up in glass cages as they know no other way of living, neither did their forefathers before them.

"So they are perfectly happy," the woman explained, "to sit on their perches and be fed and admired, with no trouble of scratching around for food for themselves. And even when they are taken out each day for exercise they soon tire and want to go back in their cages once more. I suppose it is because they are not very strong and they get tired of carrying their long tails around, as they must be very heavy for them, particularly when they are put in a paper bag, which they keep always put over their tails before the roosters are allowed to leave their boxes, so no harm will come to the long, glowing tail feathers."

"Oh, mamma, I am glad I am not a rooster with a long tail! I should be shut up in a box and never allowed to run and play. If I was a rooster I would rather scratch for a living than be shut up and fed."

So would I, dear. But you must remember these roosters have never known any other kind of a life, so they do not know what they are missing."

Next Billy and Nannie went in to see the dogs, but they did not stay long for the big Danes and wolfhounds barked and jumped against the bars of their cages in their attempts to get out so that it frightened Nannie almost to death, and she ran outside and waited until Billy should join her.

"Nan, you should have stayed longer, for I saw the cutest little dog from Mexico, with absolutely not a hair on him, and he was sewed up in a blanket to keep him warm. But the prettiest little dog there was a little Chihuahua dog, just the size of a rat, with big blue eyes and large forehead and tiny legs no larger than a lady's finger. Then there were little brown, saucy Pomeranian dogs sent all the way from Europe."

(More wonders of the exposition will be told in the next story.)

READY FOR RACE OF CENTURY

Belmont Park Event To Be Held October 20

$100,000 Purse in American Classic for 3-Year-Old International Derby

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—America's turf followers soon will have an opportunity of witnessing the "race of the century."

If present plans do not miscarry, Papyrus, winner of the famous English Derby, will meet America's best three-year-old at Belmont Park Oct. 20 for a $100,000 purse.

At the present writing, Zev, the brown son of The Finn and Miss Kearney, carrying the colors of the outstanding three-year-old of the 1922 season, and a special trial race will be held to pick the American entry in the international derby.

It is stated that the owners of America's best three-year-olds have consented to have them participate in the trial race. The entries for this are expected to include besides Zev, R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s Wilderness, Harry Payne Whitney's Flagstaff, J. S. Cadden's Dunlin and Admiral Cary T. Grayson's My Own.

It is a bit early to predict the winner of the national trial race but almost every race follower and fan would like to see the Rancocas colt match speed with the British winner.

With the Kentucky derby the Withers, Pausonok, the Belmont and the rainbow stakes won and its only setback the defeat in the Preakness at Pimlico, Zev bids fair to win a place in the hearts of the racing fans equal to that held by those famous campaigners, Man o' War and Exterminator, only to have the dope upset when the colt stepped on a stone during training at Belmont Park, causing the horse to be withdrawn from the tracks.

At present the brown colt is in training at Saratoga and according to Sam Hildreth, his trainer, "he's doing fine."

Papyrus, coming to the United States as the leading three-year-old of the English turf, is the son of the American-bred sire, Tracery, bred by Major August Belmont, one of the moving spirits in arranging the present international race, at his nursery stud in Kentucky. Papyrus' dam, Miss Matty, is a daughter of Marco, a son of Marco.

On the Spur of the Moment

THE SQUEAK OF THE WILD STENOGRAPH.

I am only a stenog. Who is always on the job. And to do my little bit in the way it should be did I took a course in English as the bally stuff is writ.

But it seems it's all in vain. You don't have to use your brain. Just copy what's dictated. No matter how related. Putting periods and commas where they ask them to be placed.

The House is of the finest. And demands of all their highest. Hiring an expert in each place. Who is well up on his pace. But the steno her ability cannot show with any grace.

If a man dictates a letter Which his steno could make better By avoiding repetition Without altering his diction, Why not let the change be made without a kick.

But it has so oft been stated That we are not educated. I presume my plea will fail On deaf ears of one and all. So what's the use of anything, I ask you? —A Stenog.

Francine Larrimore is not averse to marriage. She says the man must be handsome, but he need not have any money. If he is handsome, he won't. The homely birds seem to corner that stuff.

Some of the "comic" magazines seem to be observing the law of gravity altogether too closely.

A well-known judge says poker is a pernicious game. We hope we are not guilty of contempt if we wonder, quite to ourselves, how much it costs the judge to find this out.

We may as well announce now that so far as the ex-kaiser's plans to remount the throne are concerned, this column will not support them until he shaves off these whiskers and stops using a curling iron on that front lock of hair.

A man who supports an automobile gets a laugh once in a while. For instance, just now, microbes have been discovered on street car straps.

It would seem as though Germany could solve the problem of the falling mark by abolishing it.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S POLITE HAT

"Oh, look! Look at Uncle Wiggily!" barked Jackie Bow Wow, the little puppy dog boy, to his brother one day. "See! Uncle Wiggily has his polite hat on."

"What do you mean by his polite hat?" asked Peetie. "Uncle Wiggily is wearing his tall silk hat—that's all I see."

"That's what I call his polite hat," explained Jackie. "He takes it off with such a grand bow whenever he meets any of the animal ladies or girls. That hat seems much more polite than a straw hat or a cap. You can see it how much better."

"The hat doesn't bow of itself," whined Peetie. "Uncle Wiggily has to take it off to make it bow. Look, he's making it be polite to Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, now."

"Yes," agreed Jackie, "Uncle Wiggily has to take his hat off his head to make it polite, but I like to watch him; don't you?"

Peetie said he did and the little doggie boys spent some time looking at Mr. Longears bowing to the different animal ladies and girls of Woodland who passed his hollow stump bungalow.

Soon along came Nurse Jane and she and Uncle Wiggily went to the store together. On the way Uncle Wiggily kept taking off his tall silk hat most politely to the ladies he met.

"Don't you ever get tired of that?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"One must never get tired of being polite," said the rabbit uncle.

Coming home from the store, Uncle Wiggily said to Nurse Jane: "I think I shall hop off by myself a little way in the woods and see if I may not have an adventure. I haven't had one yet today."

"Very well," spoke Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy with a curl of her whiskers, for, being a rat lady, she had whiskers.

Uncle Wiggily hopped through the woods and he was wondering what sort of an adventure he would have when, all of a sudden, the Skillery Scallery Alligator jumped out from behind a sassafras bush and caught the bunny gentleman by the ears.

"A ha! Now I have you!" cried the "Gator, which I call him for short, though he, himself, was very long. "I'm going to take you home to my den."

And, in order that Uncle Wiggily wouldn't get away, the Alligator led the bunny's front paws through a piece of wild grapevine for a rope and led him along that way, like a tame bear.

"Dear me!" thought the rabbit gentleman to himself, as the "Gator led him through the woods. "This is quite too bad. What am I going to do to get away?" and he nodded his head and nodded the polite hat on top of his head. And just then he saw Mrs. Robin, the bird lady.

"Oh, how do you do, Mrs. Robin?" called Uncle Wiggily. "Here, Mr. Alligator," went on the bunny, "you'll have to take off my entirely and starting all over again with a new kind of money. This may not be good finance, but it is just as good as a lot of other finance we hear about.

LEARN NEW LAWS, CHIEF'S WARNING

There's One Provision That Gives Officers Chance To Curb Drivers

marizing pamphlets are now being printed for the auto club. These will be ready for distribution about the first of next week.

"The new law went into effect the first of the month and we complied with it so far as the abolition of speed traps is concerned," asserted Colonel Fraser. "The general public, having been informed of the change, seems to be aware of this fact. Therefore, we find a great deal more speeding."

Reckless Driving

A catch in the new law by which motorists should avoid being shaded by their actions, in the opinion of Colonel Fraser, lies in the fact that automobilists may be arrested on a charge of reckless driving regardless of their speed. "A motorist may be held for reckless driving if he does not use good judgment in an emergency," he explained. "This may be done even although he may have been driving at a very moderate rate of speed—even less than the law allows."

"Reckless driving—especially at intersections—is quite noticeable. We notice that drivers pay very little attention to the regulation against passing other cars in an intersection. The law prescribes a penalty for this action."

"A very large number of accidents are caused through the negligence of motorists to give proper signals. I presume you could safely say that 75 per cent of the accidents are caused by improper signals. After almost every collision there is an argument as to whether or not a signal was given."

Use Same Signals

"Signals have not been changed. The hand should be held straight out for a left-hand turn, extended upward for a right-hand turn, and held downward before stopping. There is much disparity in the manner in which signals are given. A number of motorists give signals but give them in an imperfect manner and almost at the time of action. This is particularly true in stopping, thereby giving the driver in the rear no time to stop in time to avoid a collision."

"The law prescribes that, irrespective of the fact as to whether a driver is obeying the speed regulations, a charge of reckless driving can be made against him if he does not give the proper signals. The law also provides that, if the steering wheel is on the right side of the car, some device must be placed on the left side to show signals. NO SIGNALS ARE SUPPOSED TO BE GIVEN ON THE RIGHT SIDE OF THE CAR."

"Motorists in general do not observe the law in so far as driving on the right side of the right half of the road is concerned. The law says that automobiles must not only stay on the right half of the road but on the right side of the entire road."

Colonel Fraser emphasized the fact that speed laws in Glendale have not been altered. The limit is fifteen miles at intersections and twenty miles in the residential district. "We are using our usual custom in a great many cases by trying to educate motorists by calling their attention to violations of the new law," he concluded. "Of course, this can't continue indefinitely."

HOME FOR AGED ENJOYING PICNIC

Christian Workers Visit Sanctuary to See Where Contributions Go

Today at the Pacific Evangelical Home for the Aged a big picnic has been in progress, drawing interested people from many sections of Southern California.

For numbers of those present, today was their first sight of the home which their contributions have helped to build and furnish. Among the attendance were representatives from Ladies' Aid societies, of numerous communities, whose efforts succeeded in equipping certain rooms and adding bedding and supplies.

All expressed themselves delighted with the costly and beautiful structure. Luncheon was brought and was enjoyed on the lawns, followed by an informal program.

Applications for entrance to the home, which is supported by the Evangelical church, are now being received, and the number of those residing there is expected to be materially increased this fall.

Oil Company Rejoices

An ode by Harriet Greenman was read and a composition of W. P. Coffman sung.

The well is now down 500 feet and going fast, reports state.

Vacationist Donates $350

Frank Tillinghast of Oakland enriched the local city till by $350 from his "vacation money," as a result of being apprehended on "Carnegie" boulevard last night. Tillinghast, who is a well-known figure in the city, was caught by police while driving a car without a license and without a valid driver's license.

One case contained twelve sealed bottles, the other eleven sealed bottles. Bottle No. 24, the cause of the mischief, was found to be unsealed and more or less sampled. The difficulty seemed to be that Tillinghast couldn't keep his foot off the accelerator long enough to prevent his car exceeding forty miles per hour.

From the alacrity with which "influential" Los Angeles friends came to the young man's rescue, Judge Crawford suspected a bootlegger's plot to have been hatched by the unfortunate apprehension of Tillinghast. Result, this young scion of Oakland went on his way $350 lighter—and seemingly just as happy.

Woman Gives Battle To Los Angeles Police

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 8.—It took eight policemen half an hour yesterday to subdue a 200-pound woman at Seventh and Hill streets. A riot call was sent in before she was overpowered.

The woman gave her name as Mrs. M. Ryan. According to charges filed against her she was seen by a woman detective to pick up a dress in a department store and put it in her handbag. When the woman detective asked her about it, Mrs. Ryan is said to have struck her.

Mrs. Ryan then fled to the street with a detective close after her. At Eighth and Hill streets she leaped on the running board of an automobile and brandishing her fist at the driver ordered him to stop on it. A block away the machine was stopped in heavy traffic where two officers placed her under arrest.

LAUNCH SUIT TO WIDEN COLORADO

Official Notifies Owners of Property of Plans for Condemnation

Legal notification of the proposed condemnation proceedings to widen Colorado street between Glendale avenue and the easterly city limits is being served upon the interested property owners by George Brewster of 213 South Glendale avenue, bailiff of the municipal court.

The document, which consists of about forty-eight pages of type-written legalities, also contains a summons requiring property owners to file an answer within ten days or to have the action continued by default in the superior court.

About 300 property owners are involved. Owing to the fact that so many residents are out of the city only about sixteen of these complaints could be served yesterday, although fifty calls were made. The law requires that the documents must be placed directly in the hands of the persons interested.

Assistant City Attorney Leslie R. Tarr stated this morning that he thought the action in most cases will be continued by default. He added that in this case a referee will be appointed by the court to appraise the value of the needed property.

The present width of this section of Colorado street is sixty feet. It is proposed to take ten feet off each side and increase its width to eighty feet to conform with the width of Colorado street west of Glendale avenue.

"Spice of 1922" at Mason Opera House

"Spice of 1922," the New York Winter Garden production which has been breaking records for continuous play, and which is said to be the largest and most expensive production ever routed on a transcontinental tour, will be the attraction at the Mason Opera House, Los Angeles, for the week beginning Sunday night. The engagement is for one week only, and owing to the size of the production and its importance the company has been persuaded to open its engagement on Sunday night instead of the usual Monday opening.

"Spice" carries with it a company of one hundred people and it is promised that the production will be offered exactly as it was presented at the New York Winter Garden, with the original company, which includes Brendel and Bert, George Price, Arman Kaliz, Sam Hearn, Florence Browne, Alice Ridnor, Johnny Berkes, Martha Throop, Betty Jones, Evelyn Corey, Elsie Wachta, Evelyn Downing, Maris Chasney and Eddie Fox. There is also a specially trained chorus of forty and it is admitted that the chorus had much to do with the original success of "Spice" on Broadway.

"Spice" was written by Jack Lait, newspaper man, critic and playwright. He has included in it many novel features, and while the comedy of "Spice" is one of its most attractive features much discussion is aroused by several spectacular numbers. Prominent among these are the Adam and Eve ballet and the Japanese temple scene. In the latter the young women who participate are covered with wet paint of varying hues. The Two Little Wooder Shoes number and the Cakewalk finale also come in for much comment.

Critics from the northern cities of the Pacific coast have been lavish in their praise of "Spice," declaring it to be the best and funniest production ever seen in this section of the country, and those who saw the production in New York, where it won the highest praise, declare that the production is even better today than it was when it was seen on Broadway.

GLENDALE WHITEST IN NATION'S WHITE SPOT!

Big Season Ahead Here, Predicts President Thom Of Realty Board

GREAT INFUX OF NEW RESIDENTS THIS FALL SEEKING INVESTMENTS

Many Thousands Of Visitors Will Come to Glendale; Japanese Disaster Has Vital Bearing On Program Of Building

By RALPH A. LYND
Of The Evening News Staff

THE records that were established during the month of August, just closed, in the sales of Glendale real estate and in the issue of building permits, far surpassing the figures attained in any previous August, have confirmed the predictions made by local realty dealers that the remaining months of this year would see a period of unprecedented activity in the expansion of Glendale, according to a statement today by Cameron D. Thom, president of the Glendale Realty Board and one of the men who is in closest touch with the realty market here.

"These persons who have not had an opportunity to form contacts with parts of the country outside their own immediate circle," declared Mr. Thom, "can have no idea of the rush of new residents and investors who are headed toward Southern California."

"The Pacific Northwest, where I spent six weeks this summer, will send its thousands of investors to this section of California, and the proportion of them who will come to Glendale will be a most important one and one that will exercise a striking influence on the economic conditions here, especially as regards the real estate market and the housing situation."

"Other sections of the country are also preparing to send their flood of emigrants to Southern California, and these people will have to be cared for in the cities of the Southland, so THAT THE PREDICTIONS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE, AND THAT HAVE IN A LARGE MEASURE ALREADY BEEN FULFILLED, WILL, I BELIEVE, FALL FAR SHORT OF DESCRIBING THE ACTUAL CONDITIONS AS THEY WILL DEVELOP WITHIN THE NEXT FEW WEEKS."

Important Influence

"This influx of new residents would have an important influence on business of all kinds here even under ordinary circumstances and would tax Glendale's ability to provide homes for everyone who desired to settle here, but, when one considers the changes that are already taking place in the world's economic structure as a result of the recent disaster in Japan, the situation assumes an even more serious aspect and carries with it the certainty of an advance in costs in practically every branch of activity connected with the building of homes."

"The immense orders for 500,000,000 feet of lumber that have already been received from Japan to be used in rebuilding the devastated area indicate, to my mind, beyond any question, the imminent certainty of an increase in the cost of building materials, when this stock of lumber is diverted from its regular channels in this country and is shipped abroad."

"Thousands of workers in the United States will also be engaged in filling orders in varied lines of products to be sent to Japan. And this will mean that labor will be at a premium in practically every industry in this country, so that costs of labor may be expected to keep pace with the increase in the cost of supplies."

"You can't wipe out anywhere from five to eight billion dollars' worth of tangible property, to say nothing of the thousands of lives that were lost in the Japanese quake, without disturbing the economic balance of the entire world to a greater or less degree."

Big Season Ahead

Mr. Thom's predictions of a record-breaking business in Glendale during the fall and winter are supported emphatically by many other Glendale realtors who have been transacting business on a scale never before known in what is customarily accepted as the dull season, and many of them report that the demand for residence property is becoming so insistent that it threatens to tax the ability of local contractors to keep abreast of it.

The improvements that have been actually started or that have been authorized by the city authorities are also having a marked tendency to enhance the value of real estate in practically every section of the city, and realty men declare that

The opportunities for making profitable investments in Glendale real estate and residence property were never before equaled in the history of the city.

$10,000,000 BUILDING YEAR FOR CITY IS COMING TRUE!

Population Steadily Rises To New Mark

WHEN, at the beginning of 1923, a $10,000,000 building year was predicted by Harry C. Vandewater, city building superintendent, even certain optimists shook their heads, for the 1922 total, a phenomenon in itself, was only $6,305,971; but, at the close of August books the total for the first eight months of this year stood at $6,665,664, surpassing last year's entire program by $359,693.

And the four best building months of the year lie still ahead. As though to show what it plans to do, September started out with a rush, rolling up $152,400 in the first week. When it is considered that permits for two massive hotels and two large theatres will come within the 1923 building program, together with a number of apartments and office buildings, besides the hundreds of bungalow courts, duplexes and residences, it is obvious to those in close touch with the situation that the total for the year will be nearer $12,000,000 than $10,000,000.

WILL IT COME TRUE? OF COURSE!

This is further borne out by the fact that, on the basis of Mr. Vandewater's prophecy, the monthly average should run $833,333, which would make a total of $6,666,666 for the first eight months. Compare this with the actual $6,665,664, and it will be seen that the prophecy is almost as accurate as a mathematical law.

This normality of Glendale's growth is the most satisfying feature of it, investors feel. They know there is nothing sensational in what is taking place here. The building problem resolves itself into a purely economic proposition of supply and demand. The conditions that existed last year, leading tourists to become residents, continue to exist this year.

AND POPULATION, TOO, SOARS HIGHER

The same thing holds true with Glendale's population. It was just as easy for those who knew the situation to predict in January of 1923 that by the end of the year the population would be 42,000, as it was to predict that the building permits would total $10,000,000.

And the one prediction now appears to have been as conservative as the other—for, should the flood of new Glendaleans that now promises materialize, this city will close her doors on the old year and ring in 1924 with 45,000 bells, should every citizen care to join in the merry-making.

THE YEAR OF 1923 IS NOW NEAR ENOUGH OVER TO BEGIN PLANNING FOR THAT NEWER, BIGGER YEAR, AT WHOSE CLOSE GLENDALE MAY WELL STAND 60,000 STRONG AT THE GATEWAY OF THE SAN FERNANDO VALLEY, A TRIUMPHANT CITY OF $100,000,000 INVESTED CAPITAL.

CARAVAN ESCORT TO BE PROVIDED

Southern Realtors to Start From San Fernando for Sacramento Meet

Arrangements have been concluded to have the caravan of realtors who will go from Southern California to the annual convention of the California Real Estate Association, that opens at Sacramento October 11, escorted all the way by traffic officers, and the Glendale contingent is expected to have a place well up among the leaders. Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the San Fernando valley caravan committee, has secured the names of the Glendale realtors who intend to attend the convention, and more are expected to join the caravan between now and the time set for the start from San Fernando two days before the convention opens.

Five sub-committees have been appointed by Dr. Russell to have charge of the details of the caravan, one of which will be detailed to furnish entertainment to the travelers during the trip, and it is predicted that several special novelties will be furnished by this group of workers. At least eight cars, each one loaded to capacity, are expected to constitute the Glendale delegation, but it is possible that an even greater number will go from here.

Pasadena to Lead Pasadena, as the chief contender from the Southland for the honor of entertaining the convention next year, will have the lead in the caravan, and the banners that will decorate the cars will emphasize this fact. The Glendale cars will also be decorated extravagantly and will spread the fame of this city in the cities.

BIG EXPOSITION TO HELP STATE

Fruit Growers Organize to Take Display East on Publicity Project

Announcement has just been made of the formation of a non-profit association which will present a great exposition of California's citrus, deciduous and semi-tropical fruits in the east some time after the first of the year.

The exposition will depict every phase of the California fruit industry; the orange because of its rich coloring naturally predominating. However, it is planned to show not only the citrus fruits but deciduous, both dried and canned, as well as nuts, raisins, figs, dates and flowers—all breathing the sunshine of California at a time when the east is shivering in the dead of winter.

The plans have progressed to such an extent that the financing is well under way, officers of the organization have been elected and efforts will shortly be made to interest municipalities, chambers of commerce, fruit organizations and individuals in making exhibits. Already a number of feature exhibits are planned.

Great Possibilities The organization proposes to exploit and publicize California in not only one eastern city but eventually to cover a number of the largest cities in the east; Chicago, New York, St. Louis and Kansas City offer a remarkable field for the exposition and one of these cities will probably be selected for the first exposition. It is declared that the possibilities for exploitation are immense in that such an exposition will be entirely new to the people of the

EVIDENCE OF PROSPEROUS BUSINESS IS GIVEN

IN spite of certain elements of uncertainty the basic business situation in the Pacific southwest remains sound, according to the monthly summary of conditions, issued by the research department of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings Bank and the First Securities Company.

A general spirit of constructive optimism prevails, the summary continues, and business interests are already discounting the possible effects of the major elements of uncertainty.

Consequently, the report states, there is ample evidence to support the prediction, made in earlier reports, that general prosperity will continue throughout the balance of the year, with slow but steady expansion in the more favored lines of economic endeavor.

The business community of the Pacific Southwest has marked time during August. There have been only minor changes in basic underlying economic conditions. The usual seasonal quiet in commercial activities, the midsummer uncertainty with regard to the probable eventual size of many crops, the unsatisfactory situation, the hesitancy of the investment market, and the increasing evidence that there is little credit legitimately available for the carrying on of speculative and non-essential operations during crop movement have caused business to proceed cautiously during the month.

Sound Situation

In spite of these elements of uncertainty the basic situation remains sound. Serious consideration is being given to possible important adjustments in the character of the agricultural productivity in some sections of the Pacific-Southwest where present crops have been found steadily unprofitable. A general spirit of constructive optimism prevails. Business interests are already discounting the possible effects of the major elements of uncertainty.

Consequently, there is ample evidence to support the prediction, made in earlier reports, that general prosperity will continue throughout the balance of the year, with slow but steady expansion in the more favored lines of economic endeavor.

There has been but little change in the agricultural situation during August. Orange prices have continued to weaken but lemon prices have strengthened materially. Deciduous fruit prices have continued low with a generally unsatisfactory market outlook. The walnut crop is expected to be one of the best on record, with evidence that prices will be strong. Mildew is destroying a considerable proportion of both the grape and raisin crop, but the smaller production will probably strengthen the market sufficiently to return growers as much as they would have received for the larger crop.

The sugar beet situation remains unchanged. Estimates of the total bean crop have remained about the same, with the price situation somewhat better than anticipated a month ago. The grain situation remains practically unchanged, with evidence of divergent opinions with regard to the market outlook and evidence of a weak foreign demand for barley. Cotton prices are remaining strong, with a material increase in anticipated production.

Frank Meline Co.
Opens Branch in Glendale Section

ARTHUR H. VOELKER
In charge of the Glendale branch of the Frank Meline Company. A general realty brokerage business is conducted.

Several Subdivisions Close To This City Being Sold To Many Investors

The Frank Meline Company announces the opening of a branch office in Glendale, through which they will conduct a general realty brokerage business. This brings the total number of general offices maintained by this firm in Southern California to fifteen.

The new Glendale office is located at 227 South Brand boulevard, and is in charge of Arthur H. Voelker, who previously managed the Western avenue, Los Angeles, office for the Frank Meline Company.

An organization of experienced realty specialists familiar with Southern California realty values and conditions, and more particularly Glendale property, is being perfected, and the firm announces that they are now prepared to serve their friends and clients in the Glendale district. They have, indeed, already closed several deals, according to Mr. Voelker, who says that the Frank Meline Company has reason to be pleased with the cordial reception their entry into Glendale has received.

Principal Offices The principal offices of this firm are situated in the Sun building, Seventh and Hill streets, Los Angeles, where the entire third floor is occupied. All operations of the firm are directed from this point by Frank Meline, president of the corporation.

Distinct departments engage in every branch of the real estate business under the direction of specialists. They are prepared to secure a site, construct a building, insure it, finance it, sell or lease it, act as manager of the property, and even completely furnish it if needed, supplying expert advice in each one of these functions.

Separate departments are devoted to selling and leasing of business properties, industrial sites, home sites, hotel, apartment, flat and income properties. They have a loan department, an escrow department and a general insurance department now writing fifty-six varieties of insurance. They have an architectural and building department and a subdivision department, likewise.

In Glendale Office

In the Glendale office the service facilities of the entire organization will be at the command of the Frank Meline company's friends and clients. The business property department will be operated by Messrs. Caesar and Switzer, while other departments will include sales and leases of houses and lots, income property, subdivisions, and so forth, under Mr. Voelker's supervision.

Two Frank Meline company subdivisions which are in or near Glendale, and sales on which will be handled in part through the Glendale office, are La Canada Hills, in the Flintridge district, and Glenoaks, the popular subdivision in the eastern section of this city.

La Canada Hills is described as being a series of rugged hills centered in the heart of the La Canada valley, which has recently been termed "A Miniature Yosemite," and which, by reason of its unusual beauty well deserves this designation. La Canada Hills subdivision has the distinction of being one of the few subdivisions in the district to offer home-seekers city water, gas, electricity and paved roads in conjunction with other city utilities.

Glenoaks, comprising 710 acres in the eastern section of Glendale, where the city reaches out a long arm to shake hands with Pasadena, will rapidly be developed by the owners and subdividers into a very attractive home park. The natural beauty of the glen will be

FIGURES TELL GRAPHIC STORY OF GREAT TIDAL WAVE OF PROSPERITY

Carefully Compiled Table Proves Community In Admirable Position; Comparison Of Tax Rate Shows City's Advantage

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff

GLENDALE is the "white spot" of the San Fernando valley—just as that valley is the white spot of Los Angeles county and Los Angeles county is in a similar relation to the rest of the United States.

White on white must be mighty white to stand out; but Glendale meets the test, and has figures to prove it.

With an assessed valuation for 1923 of $30,093,460 compared with $21,981,560 of 1922, an increase of $8,110,900 or 37 per cent, her tax rate dropped from $1.54 in the former year to the current $1.10 per $100!

Compare this with the San Fernando annex, which includes Van Nuys, West Lankershim, Owensmouth, Chatsworth Park, Griffin Park, Hansen Heights, Orange Cove and other points of the valley within the metropolis of Los Angeles.

Here Are Figures That Speak for Themselves

With an assessed valuation for 1923 of $26,203,510 over the $19,054,260 of 1922, an increase of $7,149,250 or 37 per cent, the tax rate of the San Fernando annex rose from $1.22 in the former year to the current $1.55.

This is an ideal comparison and offers food for serious reflection as to the efficacy of annexation as a panacea for the ills to which "small towns" are heir. In both cases the percentage of increase in assessed valuation was the same—yet with Glendale the tax rate was lowered 28 per cent, while with the San Fernando annex it was raised 27 per cent.

Even Burbank, another white spot that has resisted the temptation to annex with flirtatious Los Angeles, can profit by comparison with the San Fernando annex, though she has but one-fourth the population.

With an assessed valuation for 1923 of $6,598,070 over the $5,337,510 of 1922, an increase of $1,260,560 or 22 per cent, the tax rate of Burbank rose from $1.13 of the former year only 2 cents to the current $1.15, as against a 27 per cent rise for the San Fernando Annex.

Eagle Rock Pays Well for Advantages of Annexation

Now consider Eagle Rock, latest of the valley sections to yield to Los Angeles.

With an assessed valuation for 1923 of $5,600,195 over the $4,129,170 of 1922, an increase of $1,471,025 or 35 per cent, the tax rate of Eagle Rock jumped from $1.33 of the former year to the current $1.71, the highest rate in all Los Angeles, an increase of 28 per cent, which is even higher than the 27 per cent increase given the San Fernando annex in the same period.

With an increase of valuation over last year of 37 per cent, nevertheless the San Fernando annex this year staggers under a 27 per cent increase in tax rate; while with a similar increase of valuation over last year of 37 per cent, Glendale strides along with shoulders erect, enjoying a 28 per cent decrease in her tax rate.

Glendale Declares Dividends On Tide Of Prosperity

Both communities were laved by the same tides of prosperity; but San Fernando annex was forced to pay tribute to Los Angeles, while Glendale, rendering tribute to no one, proud and free, poured back her prosperity on her residents—declared dividends, so to speak. This is the culmination of several years' efforts on the part of various city officials.

There are those who will attempt to refute these figures by arguing that while the rate is lower, the people pay just as much, by reason of the fact that the assessed valuation is correspondingly higher.

To such arguments one replies on good advice that in the first place, the assessed valuation is not correspondingly higher but out of all proportion higher, and that one reason for the low tax rate is that the city still has a reserve accumulated from previous years; and in the second place, the rise in assessed valuation is but a pale shadow of the rise in actual valuation of property within the corporate limits of Glendale, within the past year—as anyone who has recently sold property is well aware.

Table Speaks Louder Than Words In Comparing Taxes

These figures, consequently, will stand unrefuted, in the light of careful and unbiased analysis. They have been carefully compiled and as carefully checked. They may be acted upon.

And what action but one can be taken? Invest in the white spot of white spots—Glendale.

For the benefit of those who may wish the gist of the above article in tabloid form, the following table is appended:

	Glendale	Burbank	S. F. Annex	Eagle Rock
Tax rate 1923	$1.10	$1.15	$1.55	$1.71
Tax rate 1922	$1.54	$1.13	$1.22	$1.33
Valuation 1923	$30,093,460	$6,598,070	$26,203,510	$5,600,195
Valuation 1922	$21,981,560	$5,337,510	$19,054,260	$4,129,170
Increase in Tax rate	$.44 (decrease)	$.02	$.33	$.38
Increase in valuation	$ 8,110,900	$ 1,260,560	$ 7,149,250	$ 1,471,025
Percentage of increase in tax rate	28 (decrease)	2	27	28
Percentage of increase in valuation	37	22	37	35

The above table tells the story of the San Fernando valley, in a nutshell. It not only tells the story, it analyzes the situation and diagnoses the high tax rate malady. And it goes further still, showing in concrete form why Glendale is "the fastest growing city in America."

Building in Glendale continues toward the $10,000,000 for 1923. The month of September so far has reached the sum of $121,050, and the year to date is $6,786,714, according to the figures issued yesterday by the building department at the city hall.

Hamlin & Hepburn Tell of Big Demand for Property In Edgemont Subdivision

UNDEVELOPED acreage cannot be bought in the Edgemont Park district of Burbank at the prices now being offered by Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, for their large holdings there, in what was formerly the famous Anderson ranch and Edgemont dairy, according to E. D. Hamlin, who states that over $100,000 worth of property has been sold there since August 18, when the tract opened.

"Six buildings are already under way at Edgemont Park, under our deferred-payment lumber plan," Mr. Hepburn says, "and a number more are about to start. Under our plan, in conjunction with the Edgemont Lumber company, 1622 North San Fernando road, there is no reason why anyone wanting a home should go without one."

"The tremendous success of Edgemont Park, overshadowing anything else we have ever put on, convinces us that we have found out what the public wants. Our tract is fairly humming with activity. No such popular appeal has ever been made in this vicinity."

Bought Before Rise Fortunately, we bought just before the big rise in raw acre-total of $40 per month.

"Later, when payments on the lumber have been completed and payments on the lot reduced, a loan can be arranged, sufficient to build a permanent home on the front, whereupon the rear bungalow can be rented for approximately enough to make the remaining payments."

Edgemont Park is approached by driving to Burbank and going out along Olive avenue until the tract is reached. The location is midway between the centers of Hollywood, Burbank and Lankershim, ten minutes distant by bus from the former and but five minutes from each of the latter;
while the property adjoins the magnificent new Abraham Lincoln school, and running through it are many fine boulevards.

Mr. Hepburn reports that grading is going in rapidly and that water lines are being rushed in, while gas, electricity and curbs will be supplied at once.

Unit No. 14 of Fairview, another Burbank subdivision of the Hamlin & Hepburn company, is reported to be sold out except three lots; while Castle Heights, their high class Glendale foothill tract, continues to attract buyers in search of beautiful homesites.

Mr. Hamlin states that yesterday's mail brought a check from Arizona, in full payment for a fine lot. Another Arizona man is already a property owner in Castle Heights. Both men plan to build there this fall.

Living Costs Lower In Los Angeles Area

Los Angeles living costs have come down nine-tenths of one per

Living costs in Los Angeles

United States by five-tenths of compiled by Uncle Sam.

Cincinnati, St. Louis, and Cleveland showed an increase in living costs.

Duplex Plan for Studio, Wee Home

Ideal Design for a Family of Two; Attractive, Convenient and Amazingly Economical

Now that simple living is more to be commended than ever before in American history, hundreds of people are willing to live in small houses and do their own work. Intensified housekeeping is an art which is easily learned. The secret is not to have any more things around than is absolutely necessary. Everything must have its place in convenient arrangement with whatever objects are associated with it in the work it has to do. The mere arrangement of tools in systematic order makes work easy.

This little studio or country home, while very small indeed, has been worked out to the utmost degree of efficiency so far as the basis for systematic housework is concerned. It is built on the duplex plan. The bedroom and bath are directly over the dining room and kitchenette, thus not only leaving an especially high ceiling for the living room or studio but centering the plumbing,
as we try to do in all designs.

It gains its charm through the roof line. Those who know about building know how hard it is to make an exterior of any charm whatsoever for as small a place as this house is. We have assumed the cost to be the lowest possible figure; therefore, we have suggested clapboards, although this design would be very attractive worked out in stucco.
The stairway leading up to the bedroom and bath gives an opportunity for a picturesque balcony looking down into the living room. The fireplace is so situated

A picturesque and comfortable interior, an individual and artistic exterior—so simple you can almost build it without help—a place for color and happiness and work—a suggestion for your studio or country "cabin," or year-round house in town if you are only two.

that it can be enjoyed from the studio.

There is a place in the bay window for a dining table, and this is conveniently close to the kitchen. The dresser at the end of the dining nook holds the dishes required for the table and it can be put away easily, since it is but a step from the living kitchen sink. There is a closet near the stove for the kitchen dishes.

The table beneath the window in the kitchen could also serve as a breakfast table if there were no guests. There is room in the living room for an extra couch to accommodate week-end guests.

If the porch were extended all along one side of the house it could be used as an outdoor sitting room and add greatly to the comfort.

This little house surely complies with the demand for economy, yet is attractive and livable in every way. The stairway going directly up from the living room could be made a very attractive feature, and the shelves near the fireplace for books and magazines are indicative of real comfort.

If a little additional money could be spent and a thatched roof be used with the vari-colored shingles, this house would become a little gem. Then add vines and blooming plants all around the house and a splendid garden—which alone adds a note of distinction—and you will have a home that is out of the ordinary and individual.

A garden redeems any house from any suspicion of cheapness.
An arch supporting a rose or any other climbing vine, a bird bath, sundial or bit of lattice does wonders in creating beauty. A place that is loved enough to be surrounded with a garden always seems more like a home than one without such a mark of affection.
A little house with a well-cared-for garden is often more winning than a lovely house without any such adornment.

The house is 26½ feet wide by 31 feet deep, so a long, narrow lot should be chosen. It is unpretentious in every way; therefore, just the trees and shrubs native to the country should be used. A flagged walk with the stones scattered along should lead up to the porch and around the house, and the furniture of the interior should be of the simplest.

It seems as though this little house with its charming exterior

BRISK BUSINESS REST OF YEAR

Prosperous Conditions in Pacific Southwest to Be Continued

tion continues, with the usual short period cross currents making for some uncertainty in the immediate outlook.

Summer quiet has been materially in evidence in both retail and wholesale trade, although turnover has been maintained at levels materially in excess of a year ago.
There is evidence that the major portion of this increase is due to the increase in population and not to expansion in per capita sales.
General retail trade is possibly 20 per cent in excess of a year ago.
Purchases from wholesalers are being made only for immediate requirements, but with the volume averaging from 15 to 20 per cent in excess of August, 1922. There has been practically no change in the price level or in the credit situation.

Vacation Month
The general slowing up in real estate turnover has continued throughout August. With but one or two exceptions agricultural districts are reporting the real estate market as inactive, dull or quiet with building slow or dull.
On the other hand, the residential and industrial territory in the metropolitan area surrounding Los Angeles generally reports real estate turnover as active, although slower than earlier in the year, with building activity varying from normal to booming. In Los Angeles proper August building permits will probably exceed all previous records, due largely to a considerable number of large individual permits. The suburban subdivision sales are showing signs of quieting down somewhat, although each month is witnessing record activities in the placing of new subdivisions on the market.

While industry is generally occupied at full capacity, a definite reduction in new orders is evident in practically all lines, with industrial plants gradually approaching the point where immediate deliveries can be given on new orders.

Uncertainty with regard to the petroleum outlook continues.
During the four weeks ending August 25 production in the three large fields in the Los Angeles basin increased by 26,000 barrels daily and the number of producing wells by fifty-two, with total production now averaging about 650,000 barrels a week, and with many new wells on the point of production. The situation has been eased somewhat by the completion of much additional storage space during the month, but potential new production closely parallels the increase in facilities and there is little indication of any immediate relief. The period when the production peak will be passed is still uncertain. In any case marketing difficulties will be encountered for some time to come.

The investment market marks time with evidence of a strong underdone, but with comparatively little new money seeking investment. There is some hope that a more active market and an appreciable rise in value will come during the fall months, although investors have given little tangible evidence of changing from their policy of watchful waiting.

Banking Situation
The banking situation has shown little change. There is increasing evidence of the full use of credit of this territory, with indications pointing to necessity for very careful conservation of existing credit supplies in order to provide for satisfactory movement of crops during the fall months. It is probable that interest rates will show a tendency to stiffen during the balance of the year and that it may be necessary to resort to some allocation of credit to provide sufficient supplies for the most essential lines of business. However, with careful management there is every reason to believe that the total credit supply of this territory is sufficient to take care of legiti-mate productive requirements.

District by district, the general spirit of conservative optimism prevails. Most agricultural communities are just entering the harvesting period and there is a general recognition that there will be some fairly serious marketing problems to be faced. However, in spite of losses which must be suffered on some lines of agricultural production and in spite of rather unsatisfactory price levels for a good many raw agricultural products, the total income of most agricultural communities is expected to exceed that of last year and to be sufficient to permit definite progress in adjustment to a normal post-war situation. In the industrial and commercial centers the major items of concern are being gradually discounted in advance, and while this is causing a cautious business policy, production and sales are being maintained upon satisfactory levels and gradual expansion may be anticipated.

In other words, in spite of spotted conditions in a great many lines of activity and in a great many communities, the Pacific Southwest as a whole is making gradual progress. Prosperity at the present moment may be accepted as an established fact and continued general prosperity may be relied upon for some months to come.
Conditions in the investment market show little change from those prevailing in the preceding month. The summer dullness continues to be the most prominent feature of the market, and there seems to be a divergence of opinion as to how long this quietness will last. This apparent stag-nation of the securities market is not the result of fear or lack of confidence on the part of investors, but rather is due to a sense of caution, a feeling of wariness and a desire for values, coupled, of course, with the usual summer quiet, which this year seems to be extending past its customary limit.

However, in spite of the continued tranquility, bond prices remain firm, indicating a healthy underlying condition. New offerings of merit are promptly absorbed by investors and find a ready secondary market. New issues, both for original financing and refunding purposes, have been comparatively light during August and indications point to their being even lighter in September, especially as to those securities to be issued for refunding purposes.

In many circles well informed observers of the investment market are predicting an appreciable rise in security values during the fall months.

Benefits of Caution
The beneficial effects of the cautious credit policies in general vogue in the banking field, being the past several months are being felt as crop movement approaches.
Today there is a rather finely balanced parity between the credit requirements of borrowing communities and the loaning powers of depositing district within the Pacific-Southwest. There is evidence that the requirements of the marketing season will place some temporary pressure on the credit powers of this territory, but the credit policies of the past several months have tended to build resources which should be able to move crops without any serious difficulties.

Deposits have moved within narrow levels during the month and the seasonal tendency toward reduction of balances has not been materially in evidence. Interest rates, while remaining steady, have shown a definite tendency toward stiffening and may probably be up one point in many communities before the end of the year.

The efficacy of inter-community banking in providing a maximum use of existing credit within the Pacific-Southwest is becoming increasingly evident as we enter the season of heavy credit demand. This is reducing the necessity for borrowing outside of this economic area. A particularly interesting phenomenon is the tendency for banks in agricultural communities to place more reliance this year upon borrowings from correspondent banks rather than from federal reserve redis-counts, although this may be but a temporary condition.

Ringling and Barnum Combine Will Show Shipload
Of European Acts

Arriving aboard 100 double-length railroad cars forming trains more than one and one-third miles long, and made even greater than in 1922 by the addition of many big, new foreign acts, Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Combined will exhibit at Los Angeles Sept. 12 to 16, inclusive.

Those who read the daily papers or who keep in touch with the movie news-reels need not be reminded of the shipload of acts and animals recently imported by the Greatest Show on Earth.

The remarkable cargo included two companies of baby elephants which are now joined with the forty adults of the mammoth herd. There were also 100 more performing horses accompanied by Europe's greatest trainer, and many wild animals, some of which have been added to the scores upon scores of trained jungle beasts, while others have become part of the marvelous menagerie.

More than a million persons saw the mammoth new circus of 1923 during the weeks that it exhibited in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Population of Glendale 150,000 in Five Years, Is Lon Haddock's Prediction

GLENDALE will be a city of 150,000 within five years, states Lon J. Haddock, president of the Haddock-Nibley Company, realtors, 621 North Glendale avenue, in making the announcement that they have practically closed out their other interests and are concentrating all their energies and resources in this city, where their vast foothill estate, Rossmoyne, "the Happyland," is being developed on a monumental scale.

"We believe that Glendale will fill in all the environs from Montrose to Los Angeles, and from Pasadena to Hollywood," Mr. Haddock says.

"We have a densely populated every square foot of the original San Rafael ranch, once owned by the Verdugo family, as a grant from a Spanish king.

"Glendale is the natural capital of the empire of the San Fernando valley. Here we have pure mountain water, virgin soil, fine climate, no fog, and a class of people representative of the best in America.

Values To Soar

"We are closer to Los Angeles than either Hollywood or Pasadena, in both of which communities values are out of all proportion higher than here, a condition that will not continue. I predict that within five years, Glendale values, both for business and residence property, will have equalized themselves with Hollywood and Pasadena prices.

"And I prophesy that in five years Glendale will be equally known throughout the United States with Hollywood and Pasadena as a suburb of marvelous beauty, refinement, health and prosperity.

"Let who will dispute our confidence in Glendale's future, we are backing it with very large resources of capital, time and energy. The result is that Rossmoyne, where we will open up thousands of superb homesites within the next few months, will become the equal of any suburban residence section in the world.

Smiles of Fortune

"Seldom has the sun of fortune smiled on a section as it has at Rossmoyne, where miles of Glendale's choicest residence property has for years been withheld from the market, owing to the fact that it was owned in large estates. Now, with the time ripe for opening this magnificent section to the path of the city's progress, we are able to develop it with the ideal of beauty unhampered by the haphazard hands of previous workmen.

"Not a building for blocks in any direction mars the pristine grandeur of Rossmoyne, where in a few brief months hundreds of beautiful, artistic homes will rise, all a part of a great, central, harmonious plan for the suburb ideal," as we like to think of Glendale.

"Few people outside of our own organization are aware of the prodigious amount of work that has been going on at Rossmoyne, during the past six months. We have put in over five miles of grading, sidewalks, curbs and water pipes. The gas company will begin their end of the big project on Tuesday, September 11.

"Particularly beautiful is the scenic continuation of Mountain street we have carried from its former termination at Campbell street to the Verdugo road, where, after winding grandly in and about the green hill slopes, it comes out at the Verdugo road, right opposite our new Egyptian Temple administration building.

Fine Scenic Drive

"In this continuation of Mountain street, which will be open to the public this fall, Glendale will

Chevrolet Agent Is Advised
Of Plans to Speed Up
1924 Production

C. L. Smith, Chevrolet agent for Glendale, with offices at Orange and Colorado, has received the following telegram from the Chevrolet Motor company:

"The substantial reduction in Chevrolet prices announced September 1 caused great surprise to the automobile world, in view of the common opinion that good grounds existed for expecting higher prices. All Chevrolet dealers state they had no intimation that a reduction was coming, as they knew that for more than six months the Chevrolet Motor company has been unable to fill half the volume of orders received. Three new assembly plants at Janesville, Wis.; Buffalo, N. Y., and Cincinnati, Ohio, and six new body plants adjoining assembly plants are rapidly building up production so that it is believed the company will shortly be in position to fill a much larger proportion of its orders, as it is a fixed policy of the Chevrolet Motor company to price its products as low as production costs permit. The greatly increased production now possible with seven assembly and six body plants and four parts plants insures reflection in the new list prices and which constitute an important step toward still more economical transportation."

Mr. Smith states that no new innovations are to be introduced in the styles of the Chevrolet cars, as the manufacturers have decided to concentrate their efforts on the cars that have proven so popular and efficient during the past season.

Community Enthusiasm Is Evidenced at Civic Revival Meeting

As a result of the efforts of the committee appointed to revive interest in the work, the Sunland Chamber of Commerce meeting held to elect officers had the best attendance in several months. The interest displayed promises to inject new life into the community affairs.

Officers were elected as follows: B. F. Mears, president; C. C. Campbell, vice-president; Fred Springer, secretary; J. A. Marsh, corresponding secretary and C. C. Nicholson, treasurer.

A committee consisting of Rev. W. E. Smith, C. C. Campbell and August Faure was appointed to draw up a new set of by-laws.

Business discussed was to the effect that the Sunland district should endeavor to get street lights and gas without delay, and that renewed efforts should be made to have the Roscoe cutoff road improved. The county and the city of Los Angeles have agreed to pay one-third each of the cost of this improvement if the property owners will pay the remaining third. Members of the Chamber of Commerce believe they will do this if approached in the proper manner.

An effort will be made to have First street improved through to North street.

The committee will solicit new members and seek to arouse interest in general.

EAGLE ROCK
ATTENTION HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Registration Required Eagle
Rock City Hall, Says
Latest Edict

Eagle Rock pupils planning to attend the Glendale Union High school or other high schools not within the Los Angeles city limits must register Monday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, auditorium of the City Hall, on East Colorado street, according to Donald Montgomery, secretary.

The present arrangement, Mr. Montgomery states, is that all pupils attending the Glendale institution last year may return this fall. All new students living north of Colorado boulevard and west of Windermere avenue, or south of Colorado boulevard and west of College View avenue, will also be accepted at the Glendale Union High school.

Other pupils may have their choice of Los Angeles high schools, but the board of education recommends that the Franklin High school be utilized as far as possible.

Students attending the Glendale institution will attend half sessions until after the first of the year, when it is planned to be in the new buildings on East Broadway.

Definite assurance cannot be given as to when the York boulevard bus line will be in operation, so that pupils may be transferred from the E cars at that point. It is thought, however, that this line will be functioning by the first of the year.

Really Board Meets

The possibility of merging the Eagle Rock Realty board with the Los Angeles board was discussed at last night's meeting. Realtors are divided in opinion as to the advisability of such a move, it developed.

H. I. Devoil of the firm of Haas & Devoil, realtors, 204 East Colorado boulevard, expresses himself as satisfied with conditions as they are, stating that so far this month his office has made a sale a day. Everywhere in Eagle Rock, he says, indications are that this will be the biggest fall and winter the community has ever seen, from the point of view of realty development.

The Eagle Rock Realty board has sponsored the movement of Peyton avenue residents to have that street changed from Zone A to Zone B, thus allowing duplexes or double residences on their property. A petition to this effect is now in the hands of the Los Angeles Planning commission. The realty board also recommends that Rosemont, Hartwick and Helen streets be similarly zoned.

Langley J. Goodman, 1200 East Colorado boulevard, well-known local decorator, has presented the American Legion post and Auxiliary with a handsome regulation size silk flag, which they greatly appreciate.

Improvement Association to Meet

The next regular meeting of the Eagle Rock Improvement association will be held at 8 o'clock the night of September 11, at the Central school, announces H. M. Bruce, president. It is planned to have Chief of Police Vollmer of Los Angeles as the principal speaker.

The question of district representation will be threshed out and vice-presidents elected, Mr. Bruce states. He urges everyone interested to turn out and help secure the best things possible for Eagle Rock.

On the night of September 11, a committee of the Women's Twentieth Century club will serve dinner to the members of the Dahlia committee and others interested in furthering the forthcoming Dahlia show, according to Mrs. C. W. Young.
